GUARDS BATTLE WITH CONVICTS IN STATE PRISON

Fighting Is Desperate Behind the Walls of the Wyoming Penitentiary.

DESPERATE "LIFERS" BREAK FROM THE PEN

And Rush Through Streets of Rawlings, Killing and Wounding Citizens — The Town in a Panic and the Governor Is Urged to Send Troops.

Rawlins, Wyo., October 13.—A battle raged early tonight in the state penitentiary. Locked inside the walls with hundreds of mutinous prisoners, a few guards fought desperately to restore order and prevent a wholesale jail delivery.

Camped outside the walls was a force of citizens heavily armed, ready to drive back the convicts if they murdered the remaining guards and made a rush through the gates. Shouts and occasional shots told of desperate fighting within the walls, and it was rumored that several guards and convicts were killed.

Another battle was in progress at the same time in the hills south of Rawlins, between a posse of citizens and from twenty to forty escaped prisoners. Two men were killed in the streets of Rawlins, one was desperately wounded and two convicts were recaptured, following the escape of from ten to thirty prisoners this afternoon.

Town in a Panic.

The town is in panic. Frantic telegrams were sent to Governor Carey, now at Sheridan, imploring him to send state troops to protect the citizens. Townspeople barricaded themselves in their homes tonight or, heavily armed, patrolled the streets.

The outbreak today was the second within 24 hours. About 3 p. m. yesterday, twenty prisoners escaped and nine were recaptured before 8 o'clock.

At 2:30 this afternoon a party of desperate life termers overpowered the keeper of the cellhouse, took his keys and released their comrades from their cells. Every prisoner willing to risk a battle with the guards made a rush for the gates.

A moment later the citizens of the town heard a fusillade of shots inside the walls. A bedlam of shouts and yells echoed from the prison. A few seconds later more than a dozen men dashed down the main street armed with guns and knives. Holding the few citizens on the street at bay with revolvers, they charged into a livery barn, holding up the proprietor and hastily throwing saddles and bridles on the horses.

Huge Negro With Revolver.

A huge negro with a revolver was left as guard on the outside. Charles Stressner, a barber, had heard the commotion, and came down the street with a shotgun. The negro shot him through the head, killing him instantly.

At the sound of the shot the convicts swarmed from the barn, some with stolen horses and some afoot. A Mexican wantonly stabbed the proprietor in the face, severely wounding him, and a few seconds later paid for the deed with his life. Hugh Rogner, a deputy sheriff, shot him twice, killing him almost instantly.

Leaving their dying comrades, the convicts made a dash for the Rocky hills, south of the town. A party of penitentiary guards followed in close pursuit, and before the bewildered citizens had had time to form a posse, pursuers and fighters had disappeared among the hills.

Desperate Man Hunt On.

In a short time posses had been formed and one of the most desperate man hunts in the history of the west was on. The convicts scattered into small groups, all striving to escape in the almost impassable stretch of rocky country between here and the Colorado line. Until night fall a running battle was kept up, and late tonight occasional volleys of shots in the distance told of the progress of the man hunt.

Just before nightfall six convicts were located in a canyon about a mile south of Rawlins. Twenty deputies, each armed with two revolvers and a repeating rifle, were sent to capture or kill them. The deputies reached the spot and found the convicts barricaded, ready for battle. Deciding that an attack in the dark was too dangerous the officers surrounded the stronghold of the desperadoes and will wait for daylight before closing in.

In the meantime a search of the town was made. One convict was found hiding in a caboose in the railroad yards. Citizens overpowered the guards who were taking him heavily ironed back to the prison, but the arrival of more guards prevented a lynching. The man was hustled into the prison. Some time later John Childs discovered another in his cellar.

Riot in the Prison.

While most of the guards were pursuing most of the convicts who fled to the hills most of the small body left in the prison faced a still more desperate situation. When the doors of the cells were unlocked a large number of convicts who did not join in the break for liberty were set free inside the walls. Many of them were armed. Soon a riot was in progress, the guards battling desperately to save their own lives and prevent the escape of every convict in the institu-

SLAYS HUSBAND; KILLS HERSELF

M. A. Crosby Shot Dead by Wife Who Commits Suicide.

Bodies Found in Bedroom of Adel Home by Young Son—Believed Woman Had Sudden Attack of Insanity.

Adel, Ga., October 13.—The dead bodies of M. A. Crosby, cashier of the Bank of Adel, and his wife were found in their bedroom this morning by their 6-year-old son.

The woman was lying on the floor with a 38-caliber revolver tightly clasped in her cold fingers and a bullet through her brain. Crosby was in the bed with the covers still drawn over him and had met his death by a shot in the right eye.

The little lad, fearful, ran to neighbors and upon discovery of the tragedy the coroner's inquest was held. The verdict held that both had come to their death at the hands of Mrs. Crosby. Sudden insanity on the part of the woman caused the tragedy is the only solution that intimate friends can offer. She had been somewhat despondent for some time because of slightly failing health. The couple lived happily as far as is known. The will of the dead man was found in a bureau drawer. It left everything to his wife and children.

Mr. Crosby was raised in this community and has been the cashier for the Bank of Adel for a number of years. Mrs. Crosby was raised at Arlington, Ga., and was a Miss Colley before her marriage.

LUCKIE ST. WALL BLOWN DOWN BY GAS EXPLOSION

With a terrific roar and jar that shook buildings for blocks away, a portion of the 15-foot wall fronting Luckie street between Simpson and Lattimer, in the rear of the old Marietta street public school building, tumbled down early last night.

The crash spread debris over the entire street, and for a time, traffic was blocked at that juncture. Luckily, no one was injured.

The Marietta street school wall has stood for thirty or more years. It is believed the cave-in last night was caused by gas explosion from a nearby manhole.

FITE'S FRIENDS WILL PAY FINE

Suggestion Made on Streets of Cartersville Finds Ready Response.

Cartersville, Ga., October 13.—(Special.)—If the old saying, "money talks," is true, the people of Cartersville and the Cherokee circuit are loud in their disapproval of the action of the court of appeals in placing a $500 fine on Judge A. W. Fite. Mention was made in a crowd on the street Sunday morning that the fine should be paid by the judge's friends in the circuit, and the idea caught and spread like wildfire. In a few moments it was being discussed all about town, and many prominent citizens announced their willingness to contribute toward defraying the fine. Many of the judge's most bitter political enemies declare that they will give toward the fund.

There were many people on the streets this morning when Judge Fite came to the postoffice, and crowds of men gathered along the sidewalk discussing the case. When the judge appeared, a demonstration was made in his favor, and many of his friends and a number of his political opponents grasped his hand and congratulated him upon standing up for what he thought to be right, despite the fact that a jail sentence was staring him in the face.

The judge replied to congratulatory remarks of his friends, thanking them and demonstrating the fact that none of his pugnacity has been removed by making some caustic remarks that caused sensations and laughter.

Subscription lists will be mailed to all parts of the circuit, and all his friends will be given a chance to contribute to the payment of the $500 fine.

JUDGE FITE TO APPEAL TO HAVE FIN EREDUCED

The next move in the contempt proceedings against Judge Augustus W. Fite, of the Cherokee circuit, will be an appeal to the court to reduce the fine from $500 to the minimum of $200.

Judge Fite left Atlanta for his home in Cartersville Sunday, and declined to comment on the sentence imposed on him for alleged disrespect of the court of appeals. He courteously explained that he had placed himself entirely in the hands of his attorneys, and would abide by any decision they may make regarding the sentence.

Judge Fite will not hold court, pending the date which the court has set for execution of the sentence.

ONE KILLED, TWO HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Lancaster, Ohio, October 13.—Mrs. Margaret Clouse, aged 77, was instantly killed and her daughter, Josephine Clouse, and Harry Green, all of Somerset, Ohio, were probably fatally injured this evening when an automobile in which they were riding was struck by a traction car at Carroll, a village near here.

The machine was being driven by Dr. Michael Clouse, who escaped without injury.

TRAGIC PRELUDE TO NAVAL REVIEW PLANNED FOR TAFT

Ensign A. H. Butler, Appointed From Louisiana, Drowned in Hudson River.

SAILORS FROM THE MAINE SAVE LIVES OF 11 PERSONS

Ensign Butler, With Other Officers, Was Returning to Rhode Island in Launch When He Pitched Into River—Taft Will Review Long Line of Warships Today.

New York, October 13.—Ensign Andes Haidley Butler, U. S. N., appointed from Louisiana to the United States naval academy, from which he was graduated last spring, was drowned in the Hudson river today, while returning with three fellow officers to his post on the battleship Rhode Island in the line of the great Atlantic armada, at anchor here for presidential review. In another accident on the river, six sailors from the battleship Maine rescued eleven persons from drowning.

It is estimated that 200,000 sightseers, many attracted from remote sections of the country, boarded the larger ships of the fleet, and that more than 1,500,000 persons viewed the fleet from shore during the day and this evening, when the ships were again illuminated.

How Butler Lost Life.

The accident in which Ensign Butler lost his life, his fellow officers found hard to explain. He and his party had spent the night in the city, and were on the way back to the ship in a small private launch. The little boat was making headway with difficulty against the strong tide. When still 50 feet from the battleship, young Butler was seen to step out from beneath the canopy and to pitch into the water. It is believed he thought mistakenly that the launch had a sort of running board outside the canopy, as naval launches have, and that he intended to step on this to make preparations for the landing. The strong tide carried him down and under the battleship. One of his companions dived for him, but was unable to reach him, and was rescued with difficulty. Butler's body had not been recovered at a late hour tonight.

Butler was 23 years old. He was popular on board his ship, and his death is mourned on the Rhode Island. Reports were current during the afternoon that a seaman from the Rhode Island was drowned also, but this was declared to be erroneous.

Sailors Figure as Heroes.

The rescue in which sailors from the battleship Maine figured as heroes occurred when a small launch in which Bernard Bauer and his family and friends were visiting the ship was cut squarely in two by the sharp bow of the bigger steam launch Vixen, and the occupants of the smaller craft, including seven men and four women, were thrown into the river. The little launch foundered almost immediately.

Six sailors were on the Vixen, and they were the first to plunge over the side to the rescue of the women. All hands were taken aboard safely, but not without difficulty, as the tide was running strong.

Aside from the excitement caused by the day's accidents and the presence of so many thousands of visitors, the bluejackets were occupied with preparations for the official visit by the secretary of the navy and the president, and their guests tomorrow.

Taft Expected Today.

The only event on the day's program was the arrival of Secretary Meyer and his aides, but, as this arrival was scheduled as "unofficial," no salutes or other demonstrations were made when the secretary boarded the dispatch boat Dolphin. When he breaks out his flag at 9 o'clock tomorrow it will be greeted by nineteen guns, signalizing the start of the great review, the program of which has been announced. President Taft is expected to make port on the Mayflower just about the time that the secretary finishes his review, and when the president breaks his flag every ship with guns will boom a salute. The presidential review will follow.

There was never so large a fleet of warships assembled in American waters, therefore never such a roar of salutes as will mark the president's arrival. In the evening the president, members of his cabinet and 600 naval officers will be entertained by the city at an official dinner at the Hotel Astor. The president will also review the ships on Tuesday as they pass out to sea.

Crowds Visit Ships.

The crowd of visitors which sailors and bumboat proprietors carried to the various ships today was probably the largest ever handled on the river. Every one of the thirty-one battleships and ninety-two vessels of other classes were open to inspection and all of them were overrun. The strongest magnets were the Arkansas and Wyoming, the largest commissioned battleships in the world, over whose great fighting strength the visitors all were enthusiastic.

The amateur tars of the South Carolina naval militia, who won over New York naval militiamen and crews from several other states in all three of the interstate boat races yesterday, were presented today with the trophies. The presentation ceremony took place

WYOMING, ONE OF WORLD'S BIGGEST BATTLESHIPS; MEMBER OF THE CREW DOING EMBROIDERY WORK

The super-Dreadnought Wyoming, one of the most powerful of the world's fighting craft, being equaled only by her sister ship the Arkansas of the United States navy, was one of the late arrivals at New York for the naval review October 14 and 15. The Wyoming is the latest type of super-Dreadnought, which was authorized in 1909. She was built by the Cramps at their Philadelphia yard and launched early in 1911. She is of 26,000 tons and is 526 feet over all, of beam of 91 1-6 feet, while she draws 28½ feet of water. Her armament consists of twelve 12-inch guns, eight in turrets aft and four forward; twenty-one 5-inch guns for her secondary battery and four three-pounders. She has two submerged torpedo tubes. The Parsons turbines, which are capable of driving her at a greater speed than 21½ knots, develop 28,000 horsepower.

NUDE MAN CHASES CHICAGO BOBBER

Robber Had Clothes of Ruggles — Hotel Employees Thought Him Insane.

Chicago, October 13.—George H. Ruggles, while in the bathtub in his apartments at a hotel here today, heard someone in his bedroom. Ruggles dashed out and found a man making off with his clothes. He ran at the man, who darted through the hall door, and before he could check himself, Ruggles was outside his door, which swung to and latched behind him.

Ruggles abandoned the chase of the burglar, and made efforts to get his door open, or to scale the transom as several guests were approaching down the hall. His efforts proving unavailing, he was forced to snatch up a length of the hall carpet to drape himself. Employees of the hotel, thinking Ruggles was insane, took him thus clad to a trunkroom and sent for the police before he could make them believe his explanation. He returned to his room by way of a freight elevator.

LABOR MEN RALLYING TO CUNNANE AND DAVIS

Philadelphia, October 13.—An organization to be known as the Cunnane and Davis defense conference to provide for the defense of Michael J. Cunnane and Moulton Davis, who are on trial in Indianapolis on charges of complicity with the McNamara brothers in a number of dynamite plots, was formed here today at a meeting of the Central Labor union. The conference will include a representative from every local union in this city affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. The first meeting will be held October 23 and means will be discussed by which a fund of $10,000 may be raised to procure lawyers for the accused men and to care for their families.

The allied building trades council at its last meeting adopted resolutions assessing members of every union affiliated with it a day's pay toward the proposed fund.

UNSETTLED WEATHER FIRST PART OF WEEK

Washington, October 13.—Unsettled rainy weather throughout the gulf and Atlantic states during the first part of the coming week is predicted by the weather bureau as a result of reports of a tropical storm now entering the gulf of Mexico from the Caribbean sea.

"Elsewhere over the country the weather will be fair during the next several days," says the weekly bulletin, "although a disturbance of moderate intensity, attended by local areas of precipitation, will develop over the far west Tuesday or Wednesday, cross the middle west about Thursday and the eastern states Friday.

"Seasonable temperatures will prevail throughout the country until after the passage of this disturbance, when a change to considerably lower temperatures is probable over much of the country. This change to colder will appear in the northwest Wednesday or Thursday."

WILSON SLEPT 13 HOURS ON THE 13TH OF OCTOBER

Princeton, N. J., October 13.—Apropos of the day of the month which he considers his lucky day, Governor Woodrow Wilson slept thirteen hours, enjoying his first day of real rest since he left here October 2 on a western campaign trip. The democratic candidate took a long walk with Mrs. Wilson and his three daughters. It was his first Sunday at home since he became the presidential nominee.

The governor expects to devote himself tomorrow to correspondence, and on Tuesday will tackle state business at Trenton. On Wednesday he will resume speech-making. He will speak probably at Wilmington and Dover, in Delaware; Wheeling, W. Va.; Pittsburg, Pa., and some intermediate points before the close of the coming week.

CHAMBERS RALLY AT THE ORPHEUM

City Campaign Comes to Close With Meeting at 8 O'Clock Tonight.

The city campaign will be closed Monday night. Aldine Chambers will have a final rally at the Orpheum theater at 8 o'clock, and will be one of the principal speakers of the day.

J. R. Smith, general manager of the Chambers campaign committee, stated last night that the rally at the Orpheum would be the most elaborate ever held in Atlanta. There will be plenty of music and good speaking. The committee in charge of the arrangements for the rally is composed of C. H. Kelly, Bolling Jones, Nym McCullough and E. L. Adams.

An optimistic statement from Chambers headquarters was issued on Sunday afternoon. Chairman Smith said that Mr. Chambers spoke to more than 2,000 voters in the various city wards during the week, and that more enthusiasm is being manifested during the waning hours of the campaign than ever before.

The Orpheum meeting will be called to order promptly at 8 o'clock.

James G. Woodward will make a hurried tour through several wards today and will make short talks. He will have no central meeting.

CYCLIST IS KILLED WHEN HE HITS AUTO

Jacksonville, Fla., October 13.—While speeding on his motorcycle at a rate of 50 miles an hour, up the Atlantic Boulevard late this afternoon Frank J. Troncien, a barber and amateur motorcyclist racer, crashed into an automobile driven by Thomas M. Palmer, the force of the compact throwing him through the windshield of the automobile, causing almost instant death. Troncien had been spending the day at Pablo beach and was en route to the city. The accident occurred as he swung around a car just ahead of him, evidently failing to see the car driven by Mr. Palmer bearing down on him. The automobile was filled with ladies, but none were injured.

TROLLEY STRIKE WILL END SOON

Colonel O'Leary Believes Settlement Will be Effected in Augusta Today.

Augusta, Ga., October 13.—(Special.) Col. M. J. O'Leary expressed the belief late this afternoon that the street car strike will be settled within twenty-four hours. The company has answered the mediation board on the question or willingness to arbitrate the differences, but the answer from the striking carmen has not been filed yet, in extension of time having been granted on account of the non-arrival this morning of International President Mahon.

The company's reply has not been opened by the mediators and will not be until both have been received. It is known, beyond question, though, that Colonel O'Leary's attitude in the premises and his perfectly plain statement to both sides of just what may be expected if the matter is not settled, or a settlement arranged for by tomorrow, has almost if not quite completely changed the attitude of both sides of the fight.

The Waynesboro troops were sent home this afternoon and Colonel O'Leary says, "For the sake of all parties concerned, and for Augusta, I hope it is not going to be necessary to call them back. If it should be necessary, though I really believe it will not, a great many more than the Waynesboro company will come. The company and the leaders of the men both know exactly what to expect if the present efforts to effect a settlement do not succeed, and I am confident they prefer a successful settlement."

The mediators will meet again as soon as Mahon has arrived in Augusta.

2,900 FINE CHICKENS CREMATED AT VALDOSTA

Valdosta, Ga., October 13.—(Special.) One of the most spectacular fires that has occurred in this section wiped out the main building of the Hunt poultry farm last night, burning the building and about 2,900 fine White Leghorn and Barred Plymouth Rock chickens. The farm is nearly two miles from the city, but the fire truck went out there and helped save adjoining property.

Many of the chickens were driven from the building, but they would go back into the fire. About sixty fine ducks were also attracted by the blaze, and were burned to death. A large number of chickens from adjoining houses became panic-stricken and flew into the fire.

The loss to the houses will amount to about $2,000, while the loss in chickens will be three or four thousand dollars. There was some insurance on both the houses and fowls, though the exact amount could not be learned.

The fire destroyed three-fourths of all in the farm and the most valuable chickens. Among them were Mr. Hunt's selected fowls, which were to have been exhibited at Macon and Atlanta fairs. He expects to have his farm again in good shape in thirty days.

CHEERS GREET GEORGIA TRAINS IN MANY TOWNS

Traffic Is Resumed After an Interruption of Nearly Two Weeks.

F. A. BURGESS WILL ACT AS ARBITRATOR FOR MEN

Railroad Has Not Yet Announced Representative. These Two Men Will Select Third, and this Board Will Pass on Reinstatement of Two Discharged Men.

With the trains of the Georgia railroad running on scheduled time, and the twelve days' strike now a matter of history, the actual task of arbitration begins today. The first two members of the arbitration committee will be appointed at once, and they will choose the third. It has become known that F. A. Burgess, assistant grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, will today be appointed the representative of the trainmen on the arbitration board. The appointee of the Georgia railroad has not yet been announced.

Upon these two men, and a third of their own choosing, will rest the task of deciding the question that has wrecked the Georgia railroad system for twelve days and cost the people of this state over $350,000—the question of the reinstatement of two men.

May Take Some Time.

All eyes will turn from Atlanta, where the struggle between the labor clans and the railroads has centered for three days, toward Augusta, where the arbitration board tackles the knotty problem of the reinstatement. It may take a week, possibly two weeks, before the question is settled. Much depends upon the selection of the third member of the board. The Erdman act provides that if he is not chosen within five days by the appointees of the two contending forces, the third member shall be appointed by Judge Martin A. Knapp, of the commerce court, and Charles P. Neill, commissioner of labor. Mr. Neill will remain in Atlanta till Monday or Tuesday, and if the wheels of arbitration run smoothly, his presence as mediator will not be needed any more.

All passenger trains were run on the Georgia railroad Sunday and Sunday night—three each way. Cheers and congratulations met the morning trains at every station. In some places the people almost went wild with delight, tossing up their hats and yelling at the top of their voices.

First Train to Atlanta.

Train No. 1 rolled into Atlanta Sunday afternoon at five minutes after 2—only fifteen minutes late. It carried four passenger coaches, filled with happy travelers. Three baggage cars and a mail car completed the train. The express shipments carried on the trains going both ways Sunday morning were the heaviest carried in many months. Many important shipments were delivered to the towns along the route, that had been delayed for many days, and caused loss and inconvenience to hundreds of people.

Shipping Interests Hurt.

But more important than the loss by delayed express is the material damage to the shipping interests of the big produce and wholesale houses.

Freight will begin to move Monday, the very first since last Tuesday week, thirteen days ago. The forty-six yardmen of the Atlanta joint terminals will be on their jobs to switch and couple the freight trains, and the long lines of cars will begin to crawl out of Atlanta, and out of Augusta before noon Monday. Welcome will they be to the stranded merchants in Conyers, Covington, Greensboro, Thomson and the many other live points along the road to Augusta.

In estimating the loss to the state of Georgia that the strike has caused, the loss to the shipping interests is one of the largest. It has been estimated by students of labor and strike conditions that the loss to the general public—including the shippers, the travelers and the merchants in the towns affected—amounts to as much as the combined loss of the railroads and the labor organizations. This will make the loss to the public, then, amount to at least $175,000.

Big Loss to Railroad.

The loss to the Georgia railroad itself can safely be said to exceed $165,000. For twelve days the road has received not a cent of income. At the same time their expenses have greatly increased, owing to the treble wages paid to strikebreakers and the cost of bringing them from New York and Philadelphia. Expenses of former strikes are said to make it a general rule that the railroads lose twenty times as much as the strikers. The labor organizations have paid to their 300 striking trainmen and conductor over $5,000. Another $1,000 has been paid for the board and expenses of the strikers, while the salaries, traveling expenses, etc., of the eight labor vice presidents gathered here to engineer the strike will run to $2,000.

This will carry the expenses of the labor organizations up to over $8,000 for the twelve days' sf[illegible] The estimate of twenty times this for the railroad's expense will go to about $165,000, or $13,500 a day, the price the Georgia railroad has paid.

Taking the combined amount of the railroad and the unions as the loss to the general public, the total loss to all parties reaches the figure of $350,000, for a strike of only twelve days!

To Cancel Injunction.

Macon, Ga., October 13.—(Special.)—Since the Georgia railroad strike has been settled it is presumed that when Judge Grubb, of Birmingham, opens the session of the United States court here today Joseph B. Cumming and Bryan Cumming, general counsel for the railroad, will ask that the petition for a permanent injunction against the strikers be dismissed.

FREIGHT TRAINS RUSHED ON GEORGIA RAILROAD

Augusta, Ga., October 13.—All regularly scheduled passenger trains on the Georgia railroad were operated today by the old employees. Announcement tonight is that night trains moved as though nothing had ever happened to stop them, and, beginning immediately after midnight, twenty-five freight trains will be moved from different points along the road, five of them leaving Augusta and five leaving Atlanta, one right behind another.

Dr. Neill will meet General Manager Scott and Messrs. Murdock and Gregg tomorrow morning to arrange for an arbitration board to wind up the Paschall and Morgan cases, on account of which the strike was called.

COTTON MARKET WAITING AFFAIR

New Orleans, La., October 13.—The cotton market promises to be more or less of a waiting affair until the first killing frosts of the season are reported over the cotton belt. This week the trade will hang anxiously on weather news and the first sign of colder weather will bring in the buying orders.

As a balancing feature against possible frost news will be the war in the Balkans. Complications there are feared by all the markets of the world and probably the uncertainty over the situation would have a more telling effect on cotton but for the approach of the killing frost date. Further declarations of war will, of course, have a bearish effect on prices but bears will be unable to push the advantages this would give them because of the possibility of a cold snap in the belt at any time.

The ginning of the crop will command increased attention this week because the next report on ginning by the census bureau is getting near at hand. Thursday will end the present period in the census reports, correspondents carrying their returns down to the close of business on that day. At the end of the week preliminary estimates of the amount of cotton ginned will probably be coming from private crop reporting bureaus and the figures may have some influence on the market.

The spot situation will probably grow in importance this week as spot people generally claim that mills are more willing to buy and that the export business is broadening out. The best of reports are coming from mills in this country and in England regarding the amount of business being booked ahead and they have served to give the claims of a better spot inquiry a good foundation. With reports of a continued demand for actual cotton this week, the bears will find it difficult to keep prices down unless important developments favor them. On the other hand, it is hardly to be expected that the bulls will be able to bring about anything resembling a permanent advance with the political situation in Europe as it is.

LITTLE EVIDENCE AGAINST BECKER

So Says His Lawyer—No Defense May Be Offered. Widow Testifies Today.

New York, October 13.—The possibility that the case of former Police Lieutenant Becker, on trial before Justice Goff for the murder of Herman Rosenthal, will go to the jury without any defense having been presented by John F. McIntyre, Becker's counsel, was indicated in a statement made tonight by Mr. McIntyre.

"We may contend," he said, "that there is not enough evidence to warrant a conviction and go to the jury on the people's case. If at its conclusion the state's case is no stronger than it is at present, I don't see that my client has much to answer for."

Mr. McIntyre made this statement after analyzing the testimony given yesterday by "Bald Jack" Rose, the gambler who District Attorney Whitman is said to regard as one of the state's most important witnesses against Becker.

Mrs. Herman Rosenthal, widow of the gambler who was murdered July 16, is expected to be the principal witness tomorrow.

This fact was indicated tonight by District Attorney Whitman, who will call Mrs. Rosenthal to the stand in expectation that she will corroborate the testimony given by "Bald Jack" Rose. Through Mrs. Rosenthal's own story the prosecution hopes to convince the jury that Becker had a motive in ordering, as alleged, the killing of Rosenthal—this motive being that the gambler was about to furnish the county authorities with information which would link Becker with a system of levying graft.

"Bridgie" Webber, the self-confessed owner of the gambling house where the gang which slew Rosenthal is alleged to have met on the night of the crime, also is expected to give testimony tomorrow if the examination of Mrs. Rosenthal is concluded in time.

Threats of intimidation against John F. McIntyre, Becker's counsel, and against Vlovanni Stanish, who testified against the accused lieutenant, were told tonight in statements.

Mr. McIntyre said that a man unknown to him threatened to "blow his brains out" if he should call as a witness for the defense a certain woman, wife of one of the witnesses for the prosecution. His threat, said Becker's lawyer, was made when he was gathering his papers after adjournment of the trial Saturday night. Only a few men were in the trial room when the stranger spoke to him.

A guard for Stanish, who on Friday identified "Whitey" Lewis as one of the gang which killed Rosenthal, had been provided by Mr. Whitman, the prosecutor said tonight. Stanish told the district attorney, he had been followed by strange men ever since leaving court Friday.

"It is an expensive task," Mr. Whitman said, "but I am determined that all my witnesses shall have all the protection the county can give them."

RECORDS TO BE BROKEN FOR STEEL PRODUCTION

New York, October 13.—Stimulated by the pressure for deliveries on steel contracts, a growing tonnage of unfilled orders and extremely favorable weather for plant operations, the steel companies are counting on breaking all production records for crude and finished steel this month. To do this it is necessary for the United States Steel corporation to turn out 1,525,000 tons, and other steel companies to produce nearly 1,150,000 tons of steel ingots. The one great drawback is the difficulty of getting and holding labor. The war in the Balkans already has drawn thousands of foreigners back to Europe.

The steel companies are producing today, however, at the rate of nearly 32,100,000 tons of steel ingots, 30,800,000 tons of pig iron and 23,815,000 tons of finished products, but the average for the year will be less, present indications pointing to 30,000,00 tons of ingots, 28,700,000 tons of pig iron and 22,500,000 tons of finished steel products. This would break all previous records.

The United States Steel corporation, in September, booked orders for approximately 1,488,000 tons, and shipped about 1,100,000 tons of finished steel products.

The active new buying of finished material has forced the hands of the largest interests, resulting in another advance of $1 per ton in the price of bars, plates and shapes, and blue enameled sheet by the steel corporation subsidiaries, and $1 per ton on steel hoops and wire products by independents. There is a scramble for steel billets, and $28 per ton has been bid for round tonnages of open hearth steel.

Pig iron sales aggregated over 200,000 tons, about half of which was sold in the Pittsburg district.

COTTON GOODS MARKETS ARE SHOWING STRENGTH

New York, October 13.—There was a seasonable quiet in the primary cotton goods market all week but with it was a noticeable degree of strength. There are no surplus goods being forced on the trade, and the ordinary accumulations at this season are absent. Either from scarcity of operatives or other causes mills are not able to turn off a full product, and in many instances delays in deliveries are complained of.

Jobbers report a much steadier and a fuller trade with retailers than a year ago without any signs of a runaway market being in sight. The business is sound and healthy, and more trade could be done if there were more goods offered from first hands. Retailers are generally doing a seasonable business.

All coarse yarn goods are notably steady for this season of the year. Duck and other heavy products are very well sold. Some far eastern trade is coming forward, the volume of a business on the present movement having reached 10,000 bales. From all that is seen in primary markets at this time the mills are to be active all winter. Prices range about as follows:

Print cloths, 28-inch, 64x64s, 4 cents; 64x60s, 3⅞c; 32½-inch 64x64s, 5½c and 9 3-16c; brown sheetings, southern standard, 8c; denims, 9-ounce, 13¾c; tickings, 8-ounce, 13c; staple prints, 5½c; staple ginghams, 6¼c; dress ginghams, 9¼c.

DENEEN THRUSTS AT ROOSEVELT

Springfield, Ill., October 13.—Governor Deneen, replying to the statement by Colonel Roosevelt yesterday, gave out tonight a statement saying in part:

"Governor Hadley introduced at the republican national convention a motion to take out of the temporary roll the Taft delegates and substitute Roosevelt delegates in certain contested states. These numbered about seventy-eight delegates. Colonel Roosevelt sent for me and asked me to introduce a resolution limiting the number to the thirty-four delegates from Washington, California, Arizona and Texas. I refused to do this without Governor Hadley's consent, because he had presented the motion. I felt that I could not change the line of a battle which had been participated in by Governor Hadley and others in behalf of Colonel Roosevelt, and make them appear to be acting either without knowledge or without good faith to the convention.

"I went to the convention and saw Governor Hadley, and Governor Hadley himself wrote the amendment to his motion, which I introduced. He wrote it in the presence of Senator Dixon, of Montana; Senator Borah, of Idaho, and myself.

No Charge of Theft.

"The motion of Governor Hadley was to strike from the temporary roll the Taft delegates and substitute Roosevelt delegates in their stead. My amendment provided that no delegate whose right to a seat in the convention was questioned by Governor Hadley's motion should have a right to vote on the selection of a member for the credentials committee or on its report.

"Colonel Roosevelt in his statement of Saturday makes me responsible for Governor Hadley's motion, and states that my motion charged that the Taft delegates were stolen. The resolution does not so state, and there is no possibility of placing upon it such a construction.

"Governor Hadley himself said to the convention, in urging the adoption of his motion:

"'I don't say that these charges are true. But, true or false, let us meet them here.'

"On the gentral question of contested delegations, it may be remembered that Colonel Roosevelt cried: 'Crook,' and quoted the scriptural injunction, 'Thou shalt not steal,' very vehemently regarding the selection of the southern delegates long before the states whose primary laws had had any opportunity to vote. He did this with apparent sincerity, but he reduced his claims and indignation with mathematical precision as he gained delegates in the primary states.

Garbled Quotations.

"Colonel Roosevelt went out of his way to seek to injure me by garbled quotations in an effort to make it appear that I was an ally of Senator Lorimer. His statement is without truth or justification. In my testimony before the senate committee I said that Mr. Lorimer in an interview with me had stated that they had enough votes to prevent Senator Hopkins' reelection and that they proposed to elect Speaker Shurtleff. In reply I said: 'If you have power to elect Speaker Shurtleff why don't you elect yourself?' There was no offer to assist him.

"Colonel Roosevelt says that Senator Lorimer called at the executive mansion at 2 o'clock in the morning and that I congratulated him on his election as senator. The colonel is at the very antipodes of truth. Mr. Lorimer called at 2 o'clock in the afternoon after he had been elected and was on his way over to his hotel. He asked me to make no comment upon his election and hold party matters in abeyance until he could readjust himself and bring harmony out of the disorder in our party. I passed the compliments due to such an occasion. I saw him in Washington in December following his election when we had a short talk about waterways, and again the following spring, when he came to Springfield to defeat plans for a waterways. I have had no other meeting nor relation with him since."

Roosevelt's Offer to Trade.

"I shall not answer Colonel Roosevelt's abusive epithets except to say that a committee of five representing his party and with his approval, as I have been informed, called upon me at the statehouse on July 22, 1912, and stated in effect that if I would agree to vote for Roosevelt and announce that fact no third-party ticket would be nominated against me and I would be indorsed and supported by the colonel's friends. The abuse and opposition which I am now receiving is due to the fact that I am trying to make effective in Illinois the rule of the people by standing by the trust reposed in me by them at the primaries on April 9.

"Colonel Roosevelt has received fair treatment from the republicans of Illinois, from its delegates to the convention and from myself. I voted with his friends on every motion that affected his candidacy and did everything within my power to secure his nomination. But because he failed and because I refused to desert the republican party I am subjected to unmerited abuse."

"DYNAMITE" LETTERS WILL BE READ TO JURY

Indianapolis, Ind., October 13.—Enough letters will be on hand before the jury in the "dynamite conspiracy" trial tomorrow to keep witnesses busy for a week, identifying them.

The letters are said by the government to have been written by the defendants in arranging for explosions for six years. They were taken from the files of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers. It is upon their contents and upon extracts from the union's monthly magazine and Ortie E. McManigal's confession that District Attorney Charles W. Miller announced the prosecution would base its charge that a conspiracy for the illegal interstate shipment of explosives on passenger trains knowingly was entered into.

McManigal will not be reached as a witness until after 700 exhibits have been identified.

Six hundred more witnesses already have been subpoenaed by the prosecution. Counsel for the defense, headed by Senator John W. Kern, have stated a great number of witnesses will testify as to the character of the labor union men on trial.

SOUTH OFFERS BETTER FIELD THAN AUSTRALIA

Coming direct from Australia to the United States, and to Georgia, C. N. Cummings is impressed with the great possibilities for young men in the south.

Far more opportunities there are in the southland for young men of ambition, he says, than there are in Australia. There the government has absorbed all public utilities, tramways and municipal plants of all kinds, and as fast any anybody develops an industry to the point where he is making big money out of it, the government takes it over, says this citizen from Australia.

Mr. Cummings is a member of a large fertilizer concern in Melbourne, Australia. He came over to be with the party of chemists who are touring the United States. He arrived in Atlanta Saturday in advance of the party and will join them next Tuesday when they arrive here.

Among other interesting things, Mr. Cummings says that fertilizer is spread much lighter in Australia than in the south, and that a favorite combination is made of 15 per cent phosphoric acid, 2 per cent ammonia and 5 per cent potash.

SPECULATION IN STOCKS DULL AND APATHETIC

New York, October 13.—The outbreak in the Balkans shifted speculative attention to foreign quarters last week. Aside from this influence, the stock market was relatively dull and apathetic. The legal holiday Saturday and diversion of interest to the "world series" helped to make it so. The exigencies of the money market in itself were sufficient to limit commitments in the stock market.

It was in this department that the war conditions in Europe were most directly reflected. New York's recourse to London for gold was cut off by the more pressing requirements made by the war. Securities were sold in New York on a large scale for foreign account almost every day, and in paying the bill the foreign exchange rate was kept away from the gold import level. The strong advance in grain markets, in sympathy of the brilliant showing of the government crop report, was a notice of the increase of demand for our food stuffs which will grow out of the war, and which must be financed in the exchange market.

While account is always taken of the damage of general European embroilment in any hostilities in southeastern Europe, such a result was regarded as unlikely. The fact that the effect on financial market was out of proportion to the immediate consequences involved is attributed to other causes. An overextended credit position is the principal of these. London and Paris are congested with capital issues and foreign loans. Overtrading and overexpansion of industry troubled the Berlin money market. Bidding of premiums for gold in the French provinces is attributed to German sources. In Vienna an unbridled speculation has been made a subject of official warning. Crop shortages abroad and the activity of our own money market, with the revival of business, further disquieted foreigners. It is that which makes the New York stock market the objective of securities sales.

The government crop report warrants the conclusion that the year's crop production will be the greatest in the country's history. Grain movement continues in record volume, and the benefits are showing in returns of railroad earnings. Increasing shortage of freight cars presents a danger, but measures the prodigious volume of traffic.

GREAT INTEREST SHOWN IN CATTLE TICK FIGHT

Dr. E. M. Nighbert, of the bureau of animal industry of the United States department of agriculture, in charge of the work of tick eradication in Georgia, in co-operation with Dr. Peter F. Bahnsen, of the state department of agriculture, is enthusiastic over the interest which is being aroused throughout Georgia in the campaign to drive out this cattle pest.

Dr. Bahnsen recently sent out a letter of instruction to a number of which the work was effectively in progress to drive out the cattle tick.

The officials in charge are determined that the cattle tick shall be driven from Georgia. At the last session of the general assembly an annual appropriation of $10,000 was granted in order for the state to do full duty in this work and it is being expended under the careful supervision of Dr. Bahnsen, who is already attaining good results from those counties in which the eradication is being pressed vigorously.

It is estimated that Georgia will save $5,000,000 per annum by getting rid of the cattle tick, so that beef cattle may be shipped and sold to the packing houses in the west.

DEBS WILL ADDRESS ATLANTA SOCIALISTS

The socialists of Atlanta and of several nearby towns in the state anticipate an interesting event in the appearance here next Tuesday evening of Eugene V. Debs, presidential candidate of the socialist party. Mr. Debs will speak in the Auditorium and will discuss socialism and the issues and principles that differentiate the socialist party from the other political parties.

It is expected that a great reception will be accorded the socialist presidential candidate when he reaches the Auditorium Tuesday night, and that he will be heard by an audience that will tax the capacity of the hall. Delegations from socialist locals of adjacent towns will be present. An admission fee of 10 cents will be charged

JUSTICE IN OUR MIDST!

TO THE PEOPLE:

To every thoughtful mind, our political situation now in Atlanta presents many serious features. And in passing, I will say, no voter should be intimidated or misled from voting his convictions and for what he conceives to be the best interest of all our people.

The injecting of religion into this campaign is an inroad on the policy established by the fathers of our country—that Church and State should forever be kept separated. We all know that the preservation of this principle inviolate is one of the highest duties of American citizenship.

Undue enthusiasm and fanaticism are always dangerous. The unreasonable course these feelings lead into, unless checkmated, are often as dangerous as any demagogery that is practiced on our people.

Really, we are not confronted so much with a moral question anyway as we are with a practical question, the solution of which should be determined in the light of experience and common sense. It is not a question of what we had rather have, but is what we can really expect and get. I am opposed to all bad features in our society. I am one of your citizens, I am a business man, I have a home like you, and I am materially interested in the welfare of our city and all of our people.

Doubtless the thought has occurred to many of our people that the overzealous champions of Chambers' campaign in the use of religion as a steppingstone to make Chambers mayor are violating not only every principle of decency and fairness in their attacks on me, but degrading the best conceptions of our religion. Their attacks on me are unfair—they are wrong, they are malicious.

Now, I ask, why are the Chambers forces spending so much money? Where is this money coming from? Why such insane enthusiasm for my defeat?

The moral question injected into this campaign—and this is the only question they have placed the campaign on—is being used as a "blind" to detract your attention from the business and material features involved. It is surface matter being used as political clap-trap.

Chambers and his "Ring" well know that they cannot control me!

I pledge you my word I will go into the workings of our city government and report the condition to you. I will tell you how your money is being spent, and I will see when a dollar is spent that you get a dollar's value in return.

Why is the head of almost every department of our city government for Chambers? It cannot be said there is no "Ring" when it is common knowledge that most of them are sheltering behind Chambers! There is some purpose in it. There must be something "rotten in Denmark."

It is interesting to note that on Saturday The Georgian carried 23½ columns, or over three solid pages of Chambers' advertisements. The Constitution yesterday carried 19 columns, or nearly three solid pages. The Journal yesterday carried 33 columns, or nearly five solid pages. The cost of political advertisements are twice the rate of any other form of advertisements, except whisky. Therefore, the advertisements in Saturday's Georgian and yesterday's Journal and Constitution cost approximately $2,200.00!

With eminent propriety it may be asked, What is the meaning of all this?

I have no ill-will or distorted feeling for those of our citizens who are, honestly, against me. This is a fight for honesty and good government. It is the people's battle, and the fruits of the victory will be felt for years to come in our city.

You will never have cause to regret my election, and I now give you every assurance that we will win the day by probably two thousand majority. I ask my friends to be sure to go and vote. JAMES G. WOODWARD.

PERKINS GOES AFTER HILLES

Roosevelt's Backer Resents Statements Made by the Taft Manager.

New York, October 13.—George W. Perkins, chairman of the executive committee of the progressive party made public tonight a letter which he sent today to Charles D. Hilles, chairman of the national republican committee, in reply to the letter Mr. Hilles read to the Clapp committee while testifying last Thursday.

Mr. Perkins calls attention to the fact that the statements and charges made in Mr. Hilles' letter were "made deliberately, in writing and under oath," but says the sworn statement contains no proof with which to support the charges.

"You state," Mr. Perkins continues, "there was evidence on every hand of the expenditure of large sums of money in Mr. Roosevelt's behalf—expenditures which 'undoubtedly amounted to not less than $2,000,000.' If there exists such evidence on every hand why did you not produce it in detail on the stand before the very committee that is so anxious for exactly this kind of information?

"You state that 'with respect to the assertion that Harvester money was used in the campaign, certain undisputed facts permit no other reasonable conclusion.'

"Again I say if there exists such undisputed facts why did not you produce and present such facts while on the stand before the proper committee?"

"You state that 'there is a fact full of significance, namely, that the Harvester trust itself is silent as to whether it has contributed anything.'

"Bearing on this point, in another part of your letter you say to me 'to all intents and purposes, therefore, you have been the Harvester trust.'

"If, as you assert, I am the Harvester trust, then the statement I made in my letter of September 23, namely, that 'the Harvester company has not, directly or indirectly, itself or through any individual employee, officer, director, or friend, at any time contributed one cent toward Mr. Roosevelt's campaign, either before the Chicago convention of June or since that time,' should be accepted by you as a definite statement on behalf of the company that it has made no such contribution as you claim. If, however, you refuse to accept my statement and have such overwhelming evidence as you claim to have, to the effect that the Harvester company has contributed, then, knowing as you do that such contribution would be illegal, you surely could easily have had President Taft order an investigation made of the books of the Harvester company by proper government officials, in order to ascertain just what contributions have been made and publish to the world the fact that such investigation revealed."

ARRESTED FOR USING FALSE BILLS OF LADING

New Orleans, La., October 12.—Thurman Monteith, a young man formerly of Monroe, La., was arrested here today for alleged attempts to fleece local business houses on fictitious bills of lading. The police declare that Monteith is a parole prisoner from the Ohio reformatory, and expect to send him back to face an indeterminate sentence. Today he was sentenced to serve twenty-nine days as a suspicious character.

The police charge that Monteith used bogus bills of lading, covering alleged shipments of cotton, cottonseed and staves, on which he attempted to secure $1,000 from local merchants.

DEMOCRATIC MANAGERS TO TELL ABOUT MONEY

Washington, October 13. — The finances of the democratic pre-convention campaign of this year will be inquired into by the senate campaign contributions committee tomorrow, when the managers of the Underwood, Harmon and Wilson campaigns for the presidential nomination appear for examination.

Senator Bankhead, of Alabama, who was in charge of the Underwood campaign, will be questioned as to the expenditures of the Underwood forces. Lieutenant Governor Nichols, of Ohio, who had charge of Governor Harmon's interests, will be asked about his finances. The Wilson campaign fund will be discussed by William F. McCombs, now chairman of the democratic national committee, and his assistant, William F. McAdoo. Alton B. Parker of New York, Josiah Quincy of Massachusetts, and Roger Sullivan, the Illinois leader, are the other democrats under subpoena to appear tomorrow.

Some time during the week the committee expects to recall George B. Cortelyou, who was republican national chairman in 1904, to question him as to the disclosures made by various witnesses concerning campaign contributions that year by the Standard Oil company and of the so-called Harriman fund of $240,000. George W. Perkins and probably Frank A. Munsey will appear later in the week to be questioned as to their part in financing the pre-convention campaign of Colonel Roosevelt this year.

Escaped Convicts Caught.

Piqua, Ohio, October 13.—William Barnegraff and George Washington, two of the prisoners who escaped from the state penitentiary at Columbus yesterday, were captured here today. The conductor on a freight train on which the men were riding recognized the convicts and telephoned to the police here. When the train arrived the men were surprised and taken off. The men were returned to Columbus tonight.

One Killed; 13 Injured.

Columbus, Ohio, October 13.—One man was killed, three were seriously injured and ten passengers were slightly cut by flying glass when two trolley cars of the Arlington line collided in a fog here today.

A. R. Hulbert Resigns.

Chicago, October 13.—A. R. Hulbert, assistant United States district attorney, who has charge of government prosecutions under the pure food laws, has resigned from the staff of United States attorneys, effective November 1, to engage in private practice.

M. T. Green Injured.

Athens, Ga., October 13.—(Special.) M. T. Green, formerly a policeman and now in charge of the house at the Elks' home, is at the hospital with a shattered right arm, having shot himself accidentally in the arm while cleaning a pistol. This is the ninth accident which Mr. Green has suffered in the last few months besides losing a baby and his wife by death.

Atlanta Festival Chorus—The next rehearsal of the City Chorus will be held at Cable hall on Monday, October 21, at 8 p. m., when Dr. Starnes wishes every member to be present to prepare the extensive work planned for the coming season. There will be no rehearsal this evening, owing to a combination of circumstances, among them the indisposition of Mr. Charles Sheldon, the accompanist, who is suffering from a severe strain.

MRS. PALMER QUITS CHICAGO FOR GOTHAM

Mrs. Potter Palmer, who for years has held the leadership of Chicago society, is about to relinquish this position, it is said, and will make her home at or near New York, with occasional visits to Europe and Florida. The Palmer castle on Lake Shore drive has been sold to the Ritz-Carlton syndicate, which intends to convert this finest residence in Chicago into a hotel. Mrs. Palmer has spent much of her time of late in England, where she maintained a town house in London and an estate on the Isle of Wight. Her greatest social triumph was when she entertained the late King Edward at a house party.

To Give Election Returns.

Tifton, Ga., October 13.—(Special.) Local democrats are making preparations to receive the national election returns here on the night of November 5. The returns will be thrown on canvas by a picture machine and balloons sent up hourly, signaling the way the election is going.

Franklin Matthews Named.

New York, October 13.—Franklin Matthews, a widely-known newspaper man, has been appointed associate professor in the Pulitzer school of journalism, Columbia university, it was announced. He will take charge of the course in the practice in newsgathering, reporting, editing and rewriting in the third year of the school.

CARNIVAL AT MOULTRIE PROVES BIG SUCCESS

Moultrie, Ga., October 13.—(Special.) All previous records for cotton receipts in this city were broken when dark fell last night. For the past week special inducements were offered to those bringing their cotton to this market, a celebration in the nature of a cotton carnival being held, and the trouble and expense was amply justified by the success of the undertaking. Something over 4,000 bales were marketed during the past six days.

In consequence of such large receipts the merchants, in addition to enjoying an abnormally large cash trade, were benefited by unusually large collections. Trade was induced from territory twenty-five miles away and cotton was sold in this market by persons who had never sold here before. The chamber of commerce is highly gratified with the success of their undertaking, and during the month of November will inaugurate another carnival on a larger and more pretentious scale.

AILING THROAT NURSED BY COL. ROOSEVELT

Chicago, October 13.—Colonel Roosevelt is nursing an ailing throat. The disability is not serious, according to the colonel's physician, but is simply the result of over-fatigue. It is announced, however, that Colonel Roosevelt will make no more speeches than are necessary from now until the close of the campaign.

The Roosevelt party will leave for Milwaukee tomorrow at 3 o'clock. After the Milwaukee address Colonel Roosevelt will return to Chicago; on Tuesday will go to Indianapolis, and Wednesday to Louisville, Ky. He attended services this morning at Grace Reform Lutheran church, and in the afternoon went motoring. The rest of the day he spent in his room looking over future speeches. Mrs. Nicholas Longworth and Mr. and Mrs. Medill McCormick dined the colonel this evening.

MESSENGER IS HELD FOR MISSING $200,000

Havana, October 13.—Antonio Ayala, a messenger of the National Bank of Cuba, has been arrested by order of the special judge in charge of the investigation into the disappearance of a package containing $200,000, which was supposed to have been sent by registered mail to the National Park bank of New York, on September 27. Ayala, it is alleged, was entrusted with the envelope containing the money, which he was instructed to take to the postoffice for registry. A scrutiny of photographs of the registered envelope received by the National Park bank shows that it was not the one in which the money was placed. Other arrests are expected.

Taft Goes to Review Fleet.

Woods Hole, Mass., October 13.—After a quiet Sunday on Naushon island with Governor General W. Cameron Forbes, of the Philippines, the president and Mrs. Taft and their guests left this afternoon on the Mayflower for New York. The Mayflower is due to reach her anchorage on the Hudson river about noon tomorrow and the president will spend the better part of two days reviewing the fleet assembled there.

MILNER TO REST IN CARTERSVILLE

Body of Solicitor General Is Taken Back to His Home.

The body of Colonel T. C. Milner, solicitor general of the Cherokee circuit, who dropped dead on Saturday afternoon in the office of Dr. Stewart R. Roberts, in the Candler building, while waiting the return of the physician, was taken to Cartersville, Ga., yesterday morning.

The funeral will be held at the Presbyterian church at 11 o'clock Monday morning, and will be conducted by Rev. L. G. Hames.

Colonel Milner was one of the ablest and best known lawyers in Cartersville. He had served as solicitor general for two terms. He appeared for the state in the McCullough attempt to assault case, in which Judge Fite was twice reversed by the appeals court, and which led to the trial of the judge on the charges of contempt as the result of cards he wrote criticising the appeals court.

Colonel Milner came to Atlanta Saturday to attend the trial, and to lend what aid he could to Judge Fite.

The vacancy caused in the office of the solicitor general of the Cherokee circuit by the death of Hon. T. C. Milner, who died suddenly in the Candler building Saturday, will precipitate another contest for that position. It is understood that the governor will appoint a successor for Colonel Milner, who will serve out the unexpired term.

There are many probable candidates spoken of, and it is likely that a heated contest will result. Colonel Sam P. Maddox, who was defeated by Colonel Milner after having served several terms, is mentioned as a likely contestant, as are Watt H. Milner, of this city; Colonel Starr, of Calhoun; Colonel Irwin, of Calhoun, and several others.

Arrested for Murder.

Tampa, Fla., October 13.—Boatswain Claude Pritchard, of the steamer Brunswick, was arrested here by a deputy United States marshal on a charge of murder. Pritchard shot and killed two Spaniards aboard the Brunswick on September 30 when, it is alleged, they, with two others, were mutinous. Affidavits from passengers and members of the crew have been secured, stating that Pritchard shot the men without due provocation. The Spanish ambassador at Washington asks for an investigation.

Preachers Aid Women.

Kansas City, Mo., October 13.—Sermons explaining why the equal suffrage amendment should carry in Kansas, November 5, were preached in nearly all the churches in that state today. The day was set two months ago, suffragettes obtaining pledges from ministers to assist the cause.

First Mrs. Astor Arrives.

New York, October 13.—Mrs. Ava Willing Astor, first wife of the late John Jacob Astor, and her daughter, Muriel, were arrivals from Europe today on the steamer Caronia. Her son, Vincent Astor, heir to the bulk of the Astor fortune, met his mother and sister at the pier. Mrs. Astor had nothing to say as to her plans, but Vincent Astor expressed the hope that his mother would remain with him during the winter at his new home on upper Fifth avenue.

CUT No. 2

Well, the strike has been settled.

The World Championship Series has almost been settled.

But the thing for which we are all truly thankful is that the race for Mayor of Atlanta will be settled tomorrow.

On Saturday a prominent citizen bet $5,000.00 that Woodward would be elected.

Another party bet $5,000.00 that Chambers would be the winner.

We do not encourage betting, but if you must bet, bet on a sure thing.

A bet of $5,000.00 that the Southern Engraving Company is turning out the finest engravings in the South would be a sure thing that you could not lose on.

A bet that we can deliver your cuts to you in less time than any plant in the country would be another sure thing.

If you doubt this, give us a trial on your next order, and we will convince you.

THE FARMER PAYS USURIOUS INTEREST.

A letter recently sent by President Taft to the governors of all the states ought to wake up the farmers and the country generally to the usurious interest the former class now pays as against the credit advantage enjoyed by other classes. The president's letter is exactly along the line of the declaration of the Baltimore democratic platform on the same subject.

Investigation of the rural credit societies in the old world shows that the average rate of interest paid by the American farmer is 8½ per cent. That is the official estimate. But if one take into consideration the "cropping" system prevailing in the south as well as other parts of the country, the actual rate of interest paid would be found in many instances greatly to exceed 8½ per cent.

The president shows that in Germany the farmer has no difficulty in securing all the money he needs at 4½ to 3½ per cent. A point often emphasized by The Constitution is brought out with telling force in the following fashion:

Again, the interest rate paid by the American farmer is considerably higher than that paid by our industrial corporations, railroads or municipalities. Yet, I think, it will be admitted that the security offered by the farmer in his farm lands is quite as sound as that offered by industrial corporations. Why, then, will not the investor furnish the farmer with money at as advantageous rates as he is willing to supply it to the industrial corporations? Obviously, the advantage enjoyed by the industrial corporation lies in the financial machinery at its command, which permits it to place its offer before the investor in a more attractive and more readily negotiable form. The farmer lacks this machinery, and lacking it, he suffers unreasonably. This is not theory.

Collateral offered by the farmer does, indeed, equal if not excel in soundness much of that upon which low-priced credit is extended the world over.

The land is, in the last analysis, the basis of all wealth. Tacitly, it is the crops now coming from the soil that insure for the nation one of the most prosperous years in its history. Yet, in the face of this condition, the paradox is presented of the man who makes the nation's wealth being "held up" for extortionate charges, while the men who only handle and convert that wealth can secure credit at nominal rates.

In this day of stable and easily ascertainable land values, there is no excuse for the perpetuation of this anomaly. Its presence militates against the general advancement of the country no less than that of the farmer—for it is now become a recognized fact that whatever influence retards the agricultural expansion of the country retards progress in each other direction.

By all means, congress and the states should take action looking either to giving land the prestige of bankable security, or encouraging here the formation of rural credit societies.

NOTABLE VISITORS THIS WEEK.

Atlanta will be host Tuesday of this week to about one hundred of the most distinguished chemists in the world. They came to America as delegates to the International Congress of Applied Chemistry, which met recently in New York, and since the adjournment of that body have been touring the country. They will be entertained during their stay here by the local society of chemists, of which J. S. Brogdon is secretary, with the co-operation of the chamber of commerce, which was quick to recognize the importance of the occasion.

The visit of these specialists to Atlanta and the discussions they will have with representative Atlantans ought to perceptibly stimulate the development of the chemical possibilities of this state, from the commercial standpoint.

Georgia is rich in crude resources susceptible to evolution, by chemistry, into many of the marketable products, for which the state now sends large sums of money annually to other sections. Among the most fascinating of opportunities in this direction is the fixation of nitrogen from the air for use in commercial fertilizers. Already there is a plant in South Carolina devoted to this industry. Since cheap electrical power is the main requirement, there is no reason why Georgia should not duplicate and even excel the achievement of South Carolina in this direction.

The modern chemist is the first aid to commerce in pointing out the possibilities for transmuting the hidden wealth of the soil and the air. His work in the laboratory is in the line of blazing the trail, along which later go the hosts of business and capital.

In the discovery and application of its resources in the way of chemistry, Georgia has just made a beginning. The visit here Tuesday of chemists of world-repute ought to stir local manufacturers and capitalists to an investigation of a field that is yet in its virgin state.

NEW YORK GLEANS, WHERE GEORGIA LOSES.

The treasury of the state of New York is richer by $3,150,000 by reason of its collection of the inheritance tax on the estate of the late John Jacob Astor, who went down with the Titanic. The amount from this estate will later be increased, following a permanent appraisal. The advance payment is made to obtain the advantage of a rebate allowed where willingness is shown to pay the tax within six months after the death of the decedent.

The Astor tax is the largest paid into the treasury since the enactment of the law twenty-seven years ago. For nearly three decades the administrative needs of New York state have been fed from a source recognized as legitimate by most of American commonwealths. Georgia is one of the few states that does not levy an inheritance tax.

New York is the richest state in the union. It has many sources of revenue. Yet it does not neglect the inheritance tax as a means to aid in meeting the requirements of its incessant expansion in all directions.

Georgia is the richest state in the central south. It has relatively as many sources of revenue as has New York state. Certainly it has as many administrative needs, if not more, for the "tight-wad" legislative policy of the past few years has put many of the institutions of the state in arrears. And Georgia, inadequately collecting tax at ordinary sources, complicates the situation by absolutely ignoring the inheritance tax.

A tax collectable only after the death of the owner of an estate is about the most just impost yet devised by the political economist. It works no hardship on him during his lifetime, leaving the bulk of his capital free to flow into various channels of investment. It is not unjust to his descendants or beneficiaries, for the reason that it is levied upon property to which their title is only that of the right of bequest. It restores to society a portion of the fortune which the collective activities of society were instrumental in piling up.

The fairness of the process is so obvious that it should require no elaboration. If Georgians will bring proper pressure to bear upon their lawmakers the state's income will be enriched from a source most able to bear it. The state will be a little nearer redemption from its paradoxical and perennial spectacle of bankruptcy.

In the ol'-fashioned way I'm a-haulin' my load,
But they "honk" me hill-high from the heavenly road!

No wonder yer reason

This talk of puttin' us justices out o' business makes me as tired as a jaded hoss. At least six men that I performed the weddin' ceremony for recent are sayin' all over the town that I orter be abolished, an' the man that gave me a load o' wood to marry him said yesterday that he wished the lumber trust had got the wood 'fore he had a chance at it; an' yit, the feller I hit 'side the head with a lawbook tells everybody that the lick made a lawyer of him! That was something to my credit, wuzn't it? My record is clean, an' I'll say for myself that I've never yit lynched a man who appealed from one of my decisions.

And since the hard coal trust of late
Makes me the kicked football of Fate,
I'm glad the fire is cheerful.

"But you promised me the office for the work I did for you in the campaign," said the voter.

"My dear friend," replied the officeholder, "shall I place you in peril by giving you the office? "I reckon that'll do," the voter interrupted. "Gimme a ticket home!"

AMERICUS CANDIDATES ATTACKED IN CHARGES

Americus, Ga., October 13.—(Special.) A campaign of recrimination in the primary election for mayor and aldermen was assured in the publication this morning of charges by parties said to be interested in the old Americus Lighting company, stating that M. M. Lowry, announced candidate for mayor on the Citizens' club ticket, together with the three aldermanic candidates, were stockholders or directors in the newly-established lighting company. This latter company was recently awarded the lighting contract for the city of Americus for the next year, which act constituted a grievance with the old company and interested friends.

The lighting proposition has long been a factor in local politics and brought about an unfortunate division which has proved detrimental to the city in many respects. A redhot political fight is now assured.

ENGINEER SHOUSE HURT IN WRECK AT HILLSBORO

Macon, Ga., October 13.—(Special.)—Engineer Hugh Shouse, of the Central of Georgia railway, was brought to his home in Macon today with his back broken and his body badly cut and bruised. His injuries were sustained Saturday night about 8 o'clock when his engine on passenger train No. 19, running over the Macon and Northern road, overturned at Hillsboro, ran into an open switch and crashed into a string of boxcars. Three miles from the scene o fthis wreck a freight engine was also overturned Saturday afternoon, but the crew escaped uninjured.

GEORGIA CROPS AFTER RECORDS

High Cost of Living Will Be Dealt Blow by Mr. Farmer.

The high cost of living will be dealt a solar plexus blow by honest Mr. Farmer and his whopper 1912 crops, says State Agricultural Commissioner J. J. Conner, after surveying the figures of the 1912 crop estimate issued by the department of agriculture. The corn crop will fall short just a hair's breadth below the 3,000,000,000 bushel mark, and is easily the largest crop ever grown. Georgia will yield three and seven-tenths per cent of the corn produced in the United States, and will rank second to Texas, the leader in the south.

It is agreed that the bountiful harvest by which the earth has fractured many former records is bound to make itself felt when Mr. Consumer pays his weekly grocery bills, and there is also hope expressed that it may develop shrinkage in the meat bill.

Wheat Crop of South Largest.

The wheat crop will be the fourth largest grown in the United States, but is 58,000,000 bushels less than the crop record. The production of potatoes breaks the record with 398,000,000 bushels. This is 105,000,000 bushels more than last year's yield and 9,000,000 bushels more than the bumper crop of 1904.

The barley crop is estimated at 209,000,000 bushels, 50,000,000 more than last year.

"The hay crop is the barometer of the size of the crop," said a grain dealer. "Nothing in the line of crops becomes really large until the hay yield is measured. This aggregates 72,000,000 tons, 25,000,000 tons more than last year, and 2,000,000 tons more than ever grown before in the United States."

The Big Wheat Crop.

The fact that the year will witness the harvesting of 100,000,000 more bushels of wheat than last year should have effect of reducing the cost of flour and flour products. With bumper crops grain men say that it is only natural to expect that grain products of all kinds will be plentiful and prices will seek a lower level. There are many reasons why living should be cheaper when the bulk of the crops begin to reach the market. Screenings from the wheat crop will be plentiful, which means that poultry feed will not cost so much and consequently poultry prices ought to decline.

With plenty of corn on the market, it will not create fancy prices, which means that many farmers will keep it in the granaries and feed it to their stock. This should have the effect of relieving the present acute shortage of cattle. Hogs of marketable size are expected to be plentiful, and consequently the top notch prices for lard and pork products should be materially reduced.

Vegetables Are Lower.

Mrs. Economical Housewife is assured that there will be no exorbitant potato prices this winter. Potatoes constitute one of the nation's staple crops. Cabbage, apple and onion prices are from 20 to 50 per cent lower than last year, and all other vegetables and fruits are low when compared with prices of recent years.

It will be some time before a change in the cost of meats become apparent. Pork products advanced one cent a pound last week, and the advance affected bacon, ham and sausage. The increase followed the raise by packers early last week.

Europe is facing a serious crop shortage. During the harvesting period rain was almost constant in England and all over the continent, and whatever surplus America has will be urgently needed abroad.

REV. W. J. CARSWELL DIES AT HOME IN WAYCROSS

Waycross, Ga., October 13.—(Special.)—After suffering a stroke of paralysis early today, Rev. W. J. Carswell, president of the city board of education, died within two hours at his home here. He had been in his usual good health Saturday and was at his work at night.

During his residence in Waycross the deceased took an active interest in educational matters and for nearly twenty years served as president on the school board. His sudden death came as a great shock and loss to his family and the entire city.

The funeral will be held Tuesday. His wife, two daughters, Mrs. H. J. Carswell, of Kingsland, and Miss Jessie Carswell, of Waycross; a young son and two brothers, E. D. Carswell and M. J. Carswell, of Waycross, survive.

SAVANNAH GREEKS VOW TO FIGHT FOR COUNTRY

Savannah, Ga., October 13.—(Special.)—Fifty-four sturdy young Savannah Greeks today took the oath before the flag of Greece on the holy Bible to respond to their country's call to fight the Turks on a moment's notice. There were many others who offered themselves for service, but the older and wiser among the leaders in the local Greek community had charge of the recruiting.

These half hundred willing Savannah Greeks are to answer to the first call to arms. They are picked from among those who can best afford to go, making the least business and domestic sacrifices. The Greeks held a mass meeting at St. Paul's orthodox Greek church, the Rev. Father David, rector of the church and the recognized leader of the Greek colony of this section, presiding, and was the guiding spirit in all the deliberations.

The men who took the oath are prepared to leave for New York within an hour after the call is received. A message to this effect was telegraphed to the Pan-Hellenic headquarters in New York.

It was decided that when the Savannah soldiers leave here that they will be accompanied on the first leg of their journey by the Rev. Father David. The men who have signed to fight Turkey are all actively engaged in some business in Savannah. They either run restaurants, fruit stores, or groceries, or are employed in them. The local relief fund is sufficient to pay the passage of the fighters.

Fourteen of the fifty-four men who have enlisted for army service have served their time in the army of Greece and thirty-six of the men are members of the local Greek company, of which Victor Ecopomu is captain. The members of the company are thoroughly drilled in military tactics. For two years they have been preparing themselves for just such an emergency, as they are now about to be called upon to face.

Letters From People

Bumper Estimates Misleading.

Editor Constitution: Recently published articles in the newspapers this week from optimistic writers on "Bumper Crops" and "Easy Money" are somewhat misleading, and do not state the facts as existing in this state.

For instance, we are told that money is plentiful, and yet it is reported that Atlanta banks have raised the rates on loans 1 per cent in the past ten days.

If this does not indicate a hardening of the money market, on the very threshold of marketing the cotton crop in Georgia, what does it mean? Certainly not that money is either plentiful or cheap.

Again, the statement is made that the cotton crop of Georgia this year will exceed the tremendous and unprecedented yield of 1911. This is clearly misleading. It is now an established fact that the cotton crop of Georgia this year will hardly exceed 65 per cent of the growth of 1911, and in many sections the yield will not exceed 50 per cent of last year.

It is also stated that the Georgia corn crop is the best this year in her history. The United States government bureau report on the condition of the corn crop in the United States, issued October 1, shows the condition of the Georgia crop to be 74 per cent of a normal production, as against 89 per cent for the same period last year.

There are thousands of farmers in the state who will not produce enough corn to last them to the end of this year, due to the long rainy season of last spring and summer.

No one can object to statements of fact, but optimistic writers predicting bumper yields of cotton under existing conditions, and especially during the marketing period of the crop, will tend to have a depressing effect upon values which the speculative element will be quick to take advantage of.

In this connection I wish to say that the reports on spinners' consumption of American cotton for the last twelve months, ending August 31, show a total consumption of 13,957,330 bales, the greatest consumption of American cotton in the world's history of spinning, and more than 2,000,000 bales in excess of the consumption for 1911.

Heretofore, the greatest world's consumption of American cotton in any one year was in 1909, when 12,100,000 bales were consumed.

The south produced, in 1911, over 16,000,000 bales of cotton, by far the greatest production ever harvested in this country. Notwithstanding this, we find at the end of August 31 last, that the world's mill stocks of American cotton are but 865,000 bales in excess of stocks on hand at the end of August, 1911.

American cotton stored in Liverpool, on the continent, in the United States and afloat on August 31, 1912, only exceeds the stocks so stored on August 31, 1911, by 470,000 bales.

The estimated total number of spinning spindles on August 31, 1912, was 140,693,103, against 137,278,752 in operation August 31, 1911, indicating a very material increase in the world's spinning capacity during the past twelve months.

The south's production of raw cotton this year will be, in my opinion, 2,500,000 to 3,000,000 bales less than the abnormal yield of 1911.

The crop should sell for high prices to bring any kind of prosperity to the growers and the south at large.

Prices for spot cotton should be advancing instead of going down. Consumptive requirements are unprecedented, and the market should be based upon the intrinsic value of the staple, regulated by actual supply and demand.

The south will never receive the true value for its great staple crop until the growers are able to so finance the crop as to market it slowly and prevent the heavy selling movement each fall, thereby avoiding an over supply of the raw product and subjecting its values to the manipulating machinery of speculation.

Yours truly,
HARVIE JORDAN.

U. S. SUPREME COURT BEGINS SESSION TODAY

Washington, October 13.—The supreme court of the United States will begin its annual eight months' term tomorrow, being the first of the government machines to resume activity this fall. All the members of the court are in the city, making an exception to the general rule of late years, when at least one seat on the bench has been vacant when court convened.

For the second time the court will hear late in the week, or during the following week, arguments over the validity of the indictment of James Patten and others on charges of conspiracy to violate the Sherman anti-trust law by running a corner on cotton on the New York cotton exchange.

No decisions will be announced by the court, in all probability, until Monday, October 21. A number of important cases have been under advisement during the summer. Among these are forty-five "state-rate cases" or "2-cent fare cases," the Union Pacific merger suit and the "hard-coal case." Because of the vast amount of work involved in the state-rate cases, a decision in them is not looked for until later in the term, however.

There are twenty less cases on the docket than there were a year ago. However, there are now over 800 docketed, enough to consume the time of the court for two years, if it did nothing else.

GUARDS OVERPOWERED BY NEGRO PRISONERS

Nashville, Tenn., October 13.—Calvin Murray, a desperate negro convict who eighteen months ago fought a duel with ex-Sheriff Church, of Williamson county, and Constable Locke, and who six months ago was rearrested and placed at work on the county roads of Williamson county, together with M. Van Leer and Tom Smith, negro prisoners, overpowered their guards at Bethseda, twelve miles from Franklin, tonight and escaped. George Reed, white, a guard, was knocked from the prison wagon and slightly hurt. Other guards fired at the fleeing prisoners, but without effect. Sheriff Neville, of Williamson county, citizens of the neighborhood and bloodhounds from here are on the track of the escaped prisoners.

HIS BODY CUT IN TWAIN BOY REMAINS CONSCIOUS

Chicago, October 13.—Richard Polland, 10 years old, his body cut in two by a railroad train, died at a hospital today after a period of consciousness lasting more than two hours. The boy's body was severed just above the hips.

His mother talked to him just before he died. Physicians were at a loss to explain how consciousness, during which the boy talked in response to questions, could be retained for so long a time.

APPLE IS KING IN NORTH GEORGIA

Says J. H. Hicks, Clarkesville, Organizing New Company.

The Georgia apple is working wonders in north Georgia.

J. H. Hicks, of Clarkesville, Ga., was in Atlanta last week in the interest of the organization of a new company to be known as the North Georgia Fruit company, and has secured many active business men of the state as original incorporators, their names being presented in the petition for charter, published elsewhere.

The petitioners pray that their firm be incorporated under the above named title, with a capital stock of $50,000, ten per cent of which is to be paid in before commencing business, and with the privilege of increasing the capital stock to not exceeding $200,000.

Some stock subscriptions have been paid in to date and by the time that the charter is granted the fully paid-in subscription as required will be on hand.

Fruit trees and fertilizers are being purchased and all the other requisites to running a successful orchard. When the charter is granted the new concern will be ready to engage in active business.

"The apple-raising industry in Habersham county is a tremendous venture," said Mr. Hicks. "I am not in position to say just how much money has been invested in this industry in our section, but it will run into several thousands of dollars and many thousands more are being invested."

"There are in the neighborhood of 100 apple orchards in our section, not all commercial, however, but they give the reader an idea of the wonderful industry that is being engaged in.

"In my immediate neighborhood there are three big orchards, the Piedmont, with 1,927 acres; the Habersham, with 1,850 acres, and the Soque river, with 475 acres. Their output per season is so tremendous that I cannot even estimate it.

"Understand, that orchards do not pay anything the first three or four years, and therefore we find it profitable to engage in truck farming between the trees, raising principally beans, tomatoes and potatoes for commercial purposes, the revenue gained from this co-industry paying the expenses of the developing of the orchards until the trees bear.

"The apple industry in this section is not new—but our people are just beginning to realize its wonderful promise. There are some trees in this section 15 years old that bear fifty bushels of apples in one crop.

"An idea of the immensity of this industry can be gained from the following: Presume that each tree bears fifty bushels in a season. Figure this on the acreage of the Piedmont orchard, which has 1,927 acres, with about an average of sixty trees to the acre. This would give an annual output of 1,781,000 bushels of apples a season.

"Of course these figures may be overestimated in some respects, but they give the reader an idea of the tremendous work that is going on in this section.

"Habersham county is a great apple section. In fact, I believe that it ranks with the best in the world. That I am not too enthusiastic in this statement is evidenced by the fact that at the Spokane, Wash., exposition a few years ago, Habersham county took the second cash prize for the best apples raised anywhere."

DIFFICULT TO GET JURY TO TRY LABOR LEADERS

Salem, Mass., October 13.—Three hundred and fifty men eligible for jury duty have been summoned to report to Judge Quinn, in the superior court, tomorrow, when the trial of Joseph J. Ettor, Arturo Giovannitti and Joseph Caruso, defendants in the Lopizzo murder trial, will be resumed.

Only four qualified as jurors from a previous venire of 350 talesmen, examined a fortnight ago, but better progress is expected tomorrow, as both sides have made heavy inroads into the sixty-six peremptory challenges allowed them. After these become exhausted talesmen passed by Judge Quinn may only be challenged for cause.

Ettor and Giovannitti have been in jail since January 30, last, the day after Anna Lopizzo, a Lawrence millworker, was shot. They were leaders in the textile strike there, and the commonwealth charges that their words and acts led to the killing. They are accused of being accessories before the fact to murder. Caruso, a mill operative, was indicted as an alleged principal in the shooting. A fourth man, also alleged to have been a principal, is still sought by the police.

MOTHER AND INFANT BURIED IN SAME COFFIN

Athens, Ga., October 13.—(Special.) A most pathetic funeral and burial occurred today at old Mizpah church, across the Clarke county line in Jackson county, when the body of Mrs. Ola Martin and her little year-old babe were buried in the same coffin. Mrs. Martin died Saturday afternoon. Early Saturday morning she was missed and when a search was instituted she was found in an unconscious condition, having attempted suicide. She was resuscitated and was for several hours as well as she had been for days. About noon she was stricken with apoplexy. The little one died an hour before the mother breathed her last—and she never knew of its death.

Mrs. Martin, the wife of E. T. Martin and daughter of E. K. Ryder, prominent farmers of this county, had been suffering from pellagra for months and her condition rendered her irresponsible for her acts, as she was abnormally nervous and greatly depressed.

ROBERT M'EVAN KILLED ON SEABOARD TRACKS

Savannah, Ga., October 13.—(Special.)—Robert McEvan, a young man of Bladen, Ga., was run over and killed by a northbound Seaboard Air Line passenger train two miles south of Bladen today.

The remains, mangled almost beyond recognition, were brought to Savannah on the train that killed the young man. The identity of the victim was not discovered until Savannah was reached. The body will be sent back to Bladen.

The man was lying on the tracks, presumably asleep. The engineer saw him too late to stop the train and McEvan was literally ground to pieces. The victim is a son of the Seaboard's section foreman at Bladen.

UPHOLD BEAVERS PLEAD PASTORS

Preach on Civic Duty on Eve of Mayoralty Primary.

The pastors of a number of Atlanta churches, on the eve of the "run-off" primary between James G. Woodward and Aldine Chambers, preached Sunday on the necessity of electing conscientious men to office.

Dr. O. L. Bricker, from the pulpit of the First Christian church, criticised James G. Woodward, one of the mayoralty candidates. He said that the wave of religion has driven many criminals out of many American cities, and that just as soon as the news of Woodward's election goes abroad they will flock to Atlanta. He urged every man of his congregation to vote to sustain Chief Beavers in his crusade against vice.

Betrays Sacred Trust.

Every man in Atlanta was called upon to vote in the coming election by Dr. Dunbar H. Ogden, in his sermon at the Central Presbyterian church, Sunday evening. He said that every man who refuses to cast his ballot, and who does it without regard for the moral issue, betrays a sacred trust. His text was "Render Unto Caesar the Things That Are Caesar's, and Unto God the Things That Are God's."

Rev. John E. White preached in the Second Baptist church, Sunday night, on "What the Bible Teaches About Bad Men in Office." He said that some of the saddest chapters in history teach how people suffered by the selection of bad men for office. He said that the mayor's office in Atlanta is the highest expression of the social and political character of the people of the city. The world outside, he said, will judge Atlanta by the man elected for mayor.

A Lesson From David.

A lesson from "David" was drawn by Rev. Caleb A. Ridley, pastor of the Central Baptist church, for his sermon, Sunday night. He spoke on David in contrast with Saul, and spoke at some length on David's divine call and his divine qualifications.

Referring to the political campaign he declared that he would not believe a man, no matter what he promised, whose life had given the lie to all that is good.

"God's Will for Atlanta," was the subject of the sermon preached by Rev. William O. Foster, pastor of the West End Christian church, Sunday morning. He referred to the crusade against social evil, and declared that there was no necessary evil. He pleaded for clean men in public office.

Rev. A. R. Holderby, pastor of the Moore Memorial church, spoke on the "Coming of the Kingdom" in its application to the crusade against evil. He pointed out that the church is beginning to awake to the sense of duty, and public conscience is being awakened as never before.

Appeal for Chief Beavers.

He made an appeal to his congregation to sustain Chief Beavers.

Rev. W. E. Hill, of the West End Presbyterian church, occupied the pulpit of Dr. Hugh K. Walker, at the First Presbyterian church Sunday morning. He announced that he had not come to deliver a political sermon, but that those who heard him might draw a lesson from his elaboration of his text. He described how Christ had saved the world at the cost of Himself. He said the same thing applied to life today, and that in order to save others, when we really love them, it is necessary to efface self.

Rev. J. W. Conkling, of the Unitarian church, spoke on "Social Conscience," depicting a chapter from the life of Moses. He spoke also on the necessity of placing in office men who stand for honesty and purity. He touched on the recent crusade of Chief Beavers against vice, and declared that it was the duty of every man to sustain the police chief.

Woodward Answers Sermons.

Mr. Woodward said in regard to the sermons delivered by Atlanta ministers:

"I understand that several ministers urged their congregations to vote for Mr. Chambers and that in so doing they attacked me. These attacks were predicated on information furnished them by interested and partisan parties. I am sorry they saw fit to believe what they were told. It is rather strange that all of the charges are repetitions of those of two years ago and four years ago. Nothing new has been discovered; nothing that has happened in the last three years. The public is familiar with my public and private life. I am waging a business campaign on business issues. I will receive many votes of church people who do not believe in the pulpit being made the forum for politics. I will be elected by a handsome majority."

Court at Moultrie.

Moultrie, Ga., October 13.—(Special.) Superior court adjourned last night after having spent the entire week disposing of land line cases. Court will reconvene tomorrow for the purpose of trying criminal cases, and will doubtless continue throughout the week. George Harrell and J. J. Griffin have been indicted for assault with intent to murder J. M. Harnage two weeks ago, near Berlin. Since the indictments were returned the physician treating Harnage fears that he may die, and Judge Thomas ordered the defendants to jail to await the result of the wounds. Henry Williams, the white man convicted at the last term of court for assaulting a little white girl, has been granted a new trial by the court of appeals, and will be probably tried next week.

Woman Notary in Thomas.

Thomasville, Ga., October 13.—(Special.)—Miss Lillian Farmer of this city has been appointed notary public, and is the first woman from Thomas county to hold the office. Miss Farmer is employed in the office of Hon. W. L. MacIntyre, former representative to the legislature from this county, and the member who introduced the bill giving women the right to hold this office.

Flagman Butler Injured.

Dublin, Ga., October 13.—(Special.)—Flagman E. J. Butler, on the M. D. & S. road, was hurt yesterday by falling between the cars of the train that he was assisting to make up and came near losing his life. As it is his spine was injured, and he was badly bruised and scratched.

Butler is a resident of Macon, and came to Dublin on the regular through freight. He was attempting to couple some cars on which the couplings did not work easily, and while at work on them fell under the cars between the rails. The train moved off and the brake rods and trucks struck him on the back, injuring him severely.

Infant Is Murdered.

Thomasville, Ga., October 13.—(Special.)—Roscoe Pearce and wife, two negroes living near Boston, have been arrested by Sheriff Singeltary, of this city, charged with killing their infant child only a few days old. The child was found Friday in an old well by a negro boy. Upon investigation, the baby was shown to have been tied to a plank with a wire before being placed in the water. It was naked when found. The well was near a schoolhouse, but has not been used in a long time.

REV. A. C. HENDLEY ORDAINED SUNDAY

New Pastor Will Conduct Series of Services Beginning Monday.

Pursuant to a call of the East End Baptist church, the congregation assembled at 3 o'clock Sunday for the purpose of ordaining, to the full work of the ministry, Rev. Albert C. Hendley, who, for some months past, has been acting as supply pastor of the church.

The ministers present and acting as presbytery were Rev. A. L. Flury, chairman, of Western Heights Baptist church, Atlanta; Rev. Harry D. White, also of Atlanta, and Dr. Ashley V. Pickern, of Jacksonville, Fla., evangelist; also T. J. Lochridge, deacon, acting as secretary.

Other ministers present were Dr. W. T. Smith and Rev. Patillo, of Decatur.

The report of the presbytery was made by Rev. A. L. Flury, and the ordination sermon and prayer was made by Dr. Pickern.

The service was most impressive, and it is thought to mark an epoch in the East End Baptist church, which has enjoyed remarkable prosperity and growth during the ministry of its present pastor.

At the conclusion of the service it was announced that a series of meetings will begin Monday night to continue for a number of days. The services will be conducted by the pastor, assisted by Dr. A. V. Pickern.

SUNDAY JOY RIDE ENDS WHEN POLICE INTERFERE

The Sunday afternoon joy ride of Erastus Alonzo Lewis, a 9-year-old urchin of Darktown, with his "lady friend," Mary Queen Elizabeth Johnson, seated at his side in a stolen pony cart, came to a sad and embarrassing end at police station yesterday afternoon.

Young 'Rastus in strolling along Jackson street early yesterday afternoon discovered the pony cart standing in front of a residence and his sporting blood was immediately aroused. So he climbed in and called around for Mary Queen Elizabeth with all the speed he could tease out of the Shetland pony. The diminutive sweethearts rode through the streets of Darktown in grand style for several hours before they were discovered by an officer and driven to the station with Police Sergeant Maddox on the box.

'Rastus was sent to the juvenile detention home; Mary Queen Elizabeth was returned to her mother.

De Palma Doesn't Blame Bragg.

Milwaukee, Wis., October 13.—Ralph De Palma, able to be seen for the first time since his accident in the Grand Prix automobile wreck a week ago, declared today that he laid no blame on Caleb Bragg, winner of the race, but added that according to the rules of the race, Bragg's mechanician should have been looking back and should have notified Bragg that De Palma wished to pass him.

The Biggestt Rocking Stone.
(From the September Wide World Magazine.)

Everyone has heard of rocking stones—masses of rock so delicately poised as to move backward and forward upon the slightest impulse. There are many such stones scattered throughout the world, but the majority of them are mere marbles compared to the famous rocking stone of Tandil, in South America. This giant among rocking stones weighs no less than seven hundred tons, and is situated in a low range of hills some two hundred and fifty miles south of the city of Buenos Ayres. It is composed of granite, and contains one hundred and thirty cubic meters. It is in the shape of a paraboloid, four meters high and five meters in diameter at the base. The stone rocks upon a knob of rock beneath, which fits closely into a socket-like hollow in the great boulder itself. The action of the elements through countless centuries has succeeded in wearing away the softer parts of the stone, leaving behind only the harder-gritted core. The stone is so delicately poised that it can be made to crack a walnut without crushing the kernel!

"Well, sir," said Mabel's father, after Algy had asked for the maiden's hand, "she tells me she loves you; but do you think you can afford to pay for all the little luxuries she is accustomed to?"

"Why, yes—that is, if she'll do without the necessities, I can," said Algy.—Judge's Library.

HONORS DIVIDED BY TWO ARTISTS

Solon Drukenmiller Assists Dr. Percy Starnes in Organ Recital.

Two artists divided honors at Sunday afternoon's organ recital, when Solon Drukenmiller assisted Dr. Percy J. Starnes, city organist, in a program of unusual merit. Despite the size of the audience, small, owing to the inclement weather, their enthusiasm and enjoyment could hardly have been intensified, as was shown in the spontaneous applause which broke forth at every appearance of either of the principals of the concert.

Mr. Drukenmiller was especially fortunate in the selection of his numbers, which admirably suited his voice. He sang "O Vision Entrancing," from "Esmeralda," with a delicacy of shading and a feeling which marked it among all solos ever heard at these concerts, and in the heavier number, the "Prize Song," from "Die Meistersinger," he had opportunity to show the range and power of his voice.

He generously gave two encores following the insistent demands of the audience, one of which was the beautiful old German song, "I Love Thee."

Dr. Starnes as usual was greeted with applause on his very first appearance. He opened the concert with the overture to "The Marriage of Figaro," and followed it with the universally loved "Barcarolle," from "The Tales of Hoffman." The prelude to "Lohengrin" was repeated, and the concert closed with the impressive funeral march from "Gotterdammerung."

NOW IS THE DAY OF THE COAL MAN

Sunday's Cold and Rainy Weather Presages the Approach of Winter.

Gray clouds, the steady beat of an all-day rain, and curling smoke which hovered above all the roof tops, ushered in the first wintry day of the season and turned thoughts to the supply of furnace coal.

Down town there was the barest resemblance to the holiday Sundays of the summer. No crowds loitered on the streets, the cafes were not banked three deep, and those who were there began to call for hot drinks.

The rain had been promised for several days. It held off long enough not to interrupt the world's series' Even in Atlanta, prayers were offered up that it might cease by today at noon.

With the first all-day rain of the winter comes the presage of cold weather.

Indian summer exits, winter blusters in, while the audience shivers at the weird wind music whistling past naked trees and shaking telephone wires. It's all over for the light and tasty garb of summer—and comes the day of the prosaic flannel, with long sleeves and surreptitious scratchings. Love-making is transferred from the park to the front sitting room, and the sweet seclusion in the light of the moon is replaced by an audience with the family under a 100-candle power chandelier.

It's good-bye to summer, says the weatherman, so make the best of it you can.

Five Murder Trials This Week.—The city court will have a long and tedious grind this week, with no spectacular cases to relieve the monotony of petty thievery and street fights. Five murder trials are scheduled, all negroes, none of which vary from the usual Darktown tragedy. Except these five, all of the cases on trial are bond cases, as the jail prisoners have already been disposed of. The civil branch of the city court will be sitting, with Judge H. M. Reid presiding. The divorce cases were gotten out of the way last week.

"Was your love affair romantic?"

Gossip at the Capitol

Name Officials Wednesday.

The annual meeting and election of officials of the Georgia State Sanitarium will be held Wednesday. The board of trustees will have important business, in addition to the election of officials. The physicians of the institution are elected every two years, and for that reason there will be no appointments on the medical staff. The sanitarium will turn out a large class of garduate nurses during the time the trustees are in session.

Maddox May Succeed Milner.

It is generally understood that Judge Sam Maddox, formerly judge of Cherokee circuit, will be appointed by Governor Brown to fill the vacancy in the office of solicitor of the Cherokee circuit, caused by the sudden death of Colonel T. C. Milner, in Atlanta Saturday following the Fite trial.

Judge Maddox came to Atlanta to appear before the court of appeals as one of counsel for Judge A. W. Fite.

Governor Brown has not intimated who he will appoint, and will probably not make an announcement until later in the week.

BIG, bouyant, bracing, this new story surges along through stormy seas of excitement to its final anchorage in the placid depths of love. Yes, love is here—the strong, passionate love of a man for his heart's desire. Revenge is here—the hot, reeking revenge of the Sicilian Mafia. Corruption is here—political corruption which leads to riot. And through all these scenes of violence and bloodshed there flows a steady stream of the genuine Rex Beach humor—the humor of brilliant phrase and ludicrous situation.

Like his other books of the lawless North, this new novel will quicken every heart that pumps red blood, and while in real life one does not care for overmuch slaughter, yet in fiction the guns boom softly, and the blood-stains dry when we close the book.

"God is in Our Midst"

For God, For Christ, For Our Sisters and Daughters Awake and Fight!

Pity Mr. Woodward.

Neither loathe, nor hate him.

A strong man has fallen.

Samson, shorn of his strength, was caught in the lap of Delilah.

The Philistines blinded his eyes and put him to turning their mill.

But Samson saw his sin.

God heard his cry.

Strength welled again through his veins.

His sinews strained.

And the house of the enemies of God and of Samson fell before his might.

And Israel moaned because Samson died under the ruins.

Blind Mr. Woodward thinks himself among friends.

But in the hideous mill of "Woodwardism," a slave to sin and to men, who must secretly mock him for his weakness, he is grinding out grist for the enemies of God.

Men are praying that he wake to the reality.

When he does, he will not die in the downfall!

For there is neither weight nor substance to harm him who destroys the house of evil, the dwelling place of "Woodwardism," where Mr. Woodward is held in the chains of the sin of drunkenness, lust and greed, working against God and his fellow-men.

When those who wish to use him to do their dirty work have fled, Mr. Woodward will find himself among friends, those men who, by the grace of God, will drive "Woodwardism" from Atlanta.

In the years that remain, he can be a power for good in undoing the harm that has been done by him and in his name.

Though he should never again be Mayor, he can redeem his life.

But God pity Atlanta if "Woodwardism" gets its foul fingers upon the City's throat.

White slaves with souls near murdered have been torn suffering from the frightful arms of the Beast, "Protected Vice."

Chief Beavers has driven the monster out.

But the "unbendable will and determination" of Mr. Woodward are bent upon bringing it back.

With it "Woodwardism" is allied to destroy Chief Beavers.

The cadet, that unspeakable creature who lives by betraying girls, works for "Woodwardism."

He calls his pitiful slave girl "my meal ticket."

Think of God.

Recall the Cross of Christ.

Remember your sisters and daughters.

One of these men is said to have gone recently to police headquarters.

He said:

"You put my girl out of business and I ain't got any way to live."

He had lost his "meal ticket."

They say, he is the only man ever kicked out of police headquarters in Atlanta.

Christ bade us to use no force, save light and love, and turn the other cheek.

But surely God will pardon and bless the man who gave those kicks.

There are still men in the South to whom a woman's honor is above all.

There are yet men in Atlanta who will not endure willingly contact with vermin willing to live upon a woman's shame.

Yea, awake and fight!

God may forgive, but this City will never forget those who are willing to march shoulder to shoulder with the cadet, the pimp, the procurer, the owner and the keeper of the Houses in the battle to capture Atlanta for "Woodwardism."

Yea, awake and fight!

Though God may forgive, Atlanta will never forget the man who, from cowardice or anger, prejudice, indifference or any other motive fails in such an hour to vote against the cadet, the pimp, the procurer, the owner and keepers of the Houses which were in our midst.

Rouse you!

"It is time for you to awake out of sleep.
The night is far spent and the day is at hand—
Cast off the works of darkness—
Put on the armour of light!"

Fight!

For God will make an end of "Woodwardism" in Atlanta.

Marquard and Meyers will be the Giants' battery in the hope of stopping the Red Sox today. Wood or Collins and Cady will be Manager Stahl's choice.

The Giants Have To Win Today To Stand Chance at World's Series Bunting

Edited by DICK JEMISON

Giants in "Last Ditch," Ready to Fight Fiercely To Win Today's Contest

Marquard and Collins Seem to be General Choices for Hurling Duties, Though Both Managers Are Reticent—Indications Point to Another Great Crowd at the Polo Grounds Today.

New York, October 13.—In preparation for their last chance to prevent world's series honors from slipping once and for all out of their hands and into the clutches of the triumphant Red Sox, the New York Giants made the most of their opportunity to rest today.

While the National league champions recognize fully the disadvantage of the position they occupy with the series standing 3 to 1 in favor of their Boston rivals, who need only one game more to clinch the championship, not a man of the Giants would admit tonight that he had lost hope.

Last Ditch Fight.

To the contrary, all were bubbling over with "last ditch" sentiment. John J. McGraw, manager of the team, counts on his men to show in this crisis the fighting form they displayed several times during the league season when their rivals for pennant honors had them forced into a corner.

"Once more the team is forced down to the last stand," said McGraw, "and I am certain the men will put up a fight that will make their friends proud of them."

The intense interest with which the series has been followed all through its sensational course has abated somewhat among the Giants' followers, with the dashing on Saturday of their hopes that their favorites would win the game in Boston and thus even up the series.

Despite this, and in face of the somewhat general conviction that the Bostons had "got the jump" and were in a fair way to win out, indications tonight were that another capacity crowd would be on hand at the Polo Grounds tomorrow.

No Pitcher Choice.

The Red Sox did not arrive from Boston tonight until late and neither Manager Jake Stahl nor McGraw was communicative regarding the selection of boxmen for the crucial battle. Marquard, however, looked to be the logical selection on the New York side, the "Rube" having had a good rest since he scored the only victory over Boston with which his club has been credited.

Probabilities pointed to Stahl's pitching Collins, his left-handed star, who made such an excellent showing in the tie game last Wednesday. Stahl would then, it was argued, be in a superior strategical position, counting on Collins to turn the trick, and end the series, failing which outcome Wood, with an additional day's rest, would still be available to send back at the Giants on Tuesday.

LOCAL FOOTBALL FEATURE GAME AT PONCE SATURDAY; GEORGIA V. VANDERBILT

By Dick Jemison.

The feature football game of the local season, barring, of course, the annual Georgia-Tech fracas, will be staged at Ponce de Leon next Saturday afternoon, when the University of Georgia and the Vanderbilt university elevens line up in battle array.

This game has been looked forward to by local fans ever since the announcement that the two teams had reached the decision to play here was made, and it is safe to estimate that the crowd that will witness the battle is going to be a record one.

Vanderbilt will carry all the edge, in view of the way the Commodores have been cleaning up all opponents thus far. One hundred points or nothing seemed to be the Commodores' slogan, and the loss of Freeland, Metger and Morrison, three of their greatest stars, does not seem to have weakened them as much as it was at first believed it would.

In Collins, Sykes and Hardage the Commodores have three of the fastest backs that ever worked on one team in the south. The line can hardly be termed as strong as it was, but nevertheless it has been rounding into form of late.

On the other hand, Georgia has not made the most of the excellent material that she has. All advices from men who have seen the team in action are that, although Coach Cunningham has worked like a beaver, the men have not responded in a manner befitting a Georgia moleskin warrior.

From being granted an even chance with the Commodores, the dope, since such distressing news has gone abroad, has veered to a question of by what score the Commodores will win. Georgia supporters hoping that it will be small and some of them betting that the Commodores will not exceed the Red and Black by more than 15 points.

But Coach Cunningham, who witnessed the Commodores in action Saturday, has gone to work with a vim and says that he will have the best possible team on the field when game time arrives and hopes to give the Commodores a battle.

The game will be interesting from an individual standpoint. Atlantans will have the opportunity of comparing the relative merits of Captain Lewis Hardage, of Vanderbilt, and Bob McWhorter, of Georgia, the two sensational halfbacks, rated as the best backs in the entire southland.

The duel between these two men is sure to be worth the price of admission alone, but the chances are that McWhorter will have to do most of his starring under difficulties, as Hardage is almost sure to get the better support.

Be that as it may, the battle is sure to be worth seeing.

RED SOX A HAPPY LOT; EXPECT VICTORY TODAY

Boston, October 13.—The Red Sox, lacking only one victory in the series with the New York Giants to become the world's baseball champions of 1912, were a happy lot when they left for New York this evening. With three victories to the Giants' one so far, they expressed confidence as to the outcome of the game to be played tomorrow on the Polo grounds.

Just before boarding the train Manager Stahl said:

"The boys feel pretty sure of the result and everything seems to be in our favor. Of course, we expect to win tomorrow's game, but if we should happen to lose, we still have two more games in which to secure the fourth victory."

No Demonstration.

No demonstration accompanied the departure of the team. Barely a hundred people saw the players off and there was no cheering.

Inquiry among the players developed nothing to indicate just who would be the Boston pitcher tomorrow. Opinion was about evenly divided as to whether Joe Wood, who has won both his games, would be selected. Those who thought it would not be Wood picked either Ray Collins, the left-hander, or Buck O'Brien as Manager Stahl's likely choice, and said they thought Wood would be saved to pitch Tuesday if necessary.

Manager Stahl himself would volunteer nothing on this point. Wood said in reply to a question: "I am ready to pitch tomorrow if wanted, but I have not heard yet whether I am to be called on."

More than 500 Boston Red Sox rooters, headed by Mayor John F. Fitzgerald, left on a special train for New York this afternoon to "be in at the finish," the mayor said. They were accompanied by a band.

VANDERBILT HAS GOOD LOOK-IN FOR COUNTRY'S FOOTBALL TITLE

Nashville, Tenn., October 13.—(Special.)—That Vanderbilt has at least a possible look-in on football honors in the entire country this season is a somewhat startling statement, but a glance at the situation will show such to be the case.

Certainly its southern rating will be established without peradventure, for it not only meets the four strongest Dixie squads in Virginia, Georgia, Auburn and Sewanee, but a victory over each would be especially significant in view of the apparent fact that each is to have one of the strongest teams in the history of its respective institution.

Every indication points to Harvard's having the greatest backfield the east has ever seen and one of the greatest, if not the most formidable teams that ever sported the crimson, and possibly the best in that section this year.

Should the McGugin foray into the classic shades of Cambridge be a conquest there is consequently opportunity of establishing a title to the country's best.

Style of Play.

There is no doubt but that the McGugin and Yost style of play is most effective against the eastern teams with the most ancient and honorable football traditions and much inferior in physical strength and experience a McGugin-coached team is likely to cause trouble against an adversary of much greater natural ability coached according to a style of play that has not adapted itself to the evolution of the game as has that originated in the west and introduced with such success in the south by Dan McGugin.

Vanderbilt's tie with Yale with a freshman and light outfit two years ago would incline to throw considerable light upon this line of speculation.

The appearance of Tackle Shipp would seem to guarantee another powerful line this year, for with Tom Morgan alongside, the line cannot be weak. Shipp and Morgan are both better than 200-pounders and will bring the line average well to the 180 mark.

Morgan is much faster than ever before, having worked off nearly 30 pounds in a hayfield last summer, still, however, being no midget with a trifle over 200 pounds of human wordupois to project into the conflict.

Good Substitutes.

Tom Brown will tip the scales at approximately 180 at the time of the big games, and is faster and harder than ever. Daves and Swafford promise to make reliable fillers to this department of play, which topped with Enoch Brown at one end and Turner or Chester at the other, and Covington as a comeback possibility, now out with an injury, a very fine piece of football machinery is bound to be the result.

In order to meet such a gruelling schedule it will be necessary to be able to show a fine line of good secondary material, for there are bound to be injuries along the rocky road of such a strenuous campaign. In line material that may be counted on in such a capacity there is present several promising freshmen, including Reyer, Porter, Lowe, White and others. In addition Huffman, a reliable sub will be in the running for a while at least against any new comer for a regular birth.

Backfield Fast.

In backfield material, however, the situation is not so good, and an injury to Captain Hardage or Collins or Sikes would upset things mightily. There are three quarterback possibilities, with Curlin practically established as No. 1, but for halves and full there has as yet been no development calculated to meet an emergency that would exist should the hazard of the game result in a bad injury to half or to fullback.

Coach McGugin is already giving much study to this problem, and hopes to find possibilities that later on may be relied upon to step into any enforced backfield vacancy and give a reliable account of themselves. The backfield promises in its regular makeup to be the fastest that McGugin has ever had, and this in full recollection of the days of Craig and Campbell and Manier.

The opportunities for the season are certainly the greatest that southern football has ever seen, for, as noted, there is at least a possible look-in on the world's series in football for Coach Dan McGugin's Commodores this season.

PROBABLE BATTERIES FOR TODAY'S GAME WHICH MAY BE FINAL OF THE SERIES

RUBE MARQUARD, (Giants)

CHIEF MEYERS, (Giants.)

JOE WOOD, (Red Sox.)

FOREST CADY, (Red Sox.)

These are the probable batteries for today's game between the Giants and the Red Sox, the sixth of the series. It will be staged at the Polo Grounds. If Wood wins the Red Sox win the rag. If Marquard wins the Giants still have a fighting chance. The Marquard-Wood duel should be just about the best of the entire season, and one run ought to settle the contest.

A VIRGINIA STAR.

EDWARD FINLAY,

Of the University of Virginia eleven. He is an all-South Atlantic end, and is expected to be one of the stars in the game against Vanderbilt at Nashville. He is also captain of next year's baseball team at Virginia.

GAME THROWN OUT BY PRESIDENT LYNCH

New York, October 14.—Pittsburg's protest against Chicago's victory in the game of October 2 was upheld by President Lynch, of the National league in a decision made public last night, and the game was thrown out of the record, thus changing slightly the league's standing. The protest was based on the fact that Catcher Cotter, of Chicago, was batting out of his turn when he hit a single which won the game in the tenth inning.

President Lynch gave out last night the official standing of the league as follows:

Club.	W.	L.	P.C.
New York	104	48	.684
Pittsburg	93	58	.616
Chicago	91	59	.607
Cincinnati	75	78	.490
Philadelphia	73	79	.480
St. Louis	63	90	.412
Brooklyn	58	95	.379
Boston	52	101	.340

New Shape of Hats for Fall.

(From The Millinery Trade Review.)

It is noticeable that where the derby shapes of last season are not shown in the fall collections, the derby idea is the basis of many of the new blocks and frames. The derby crown is retained with a number of variations in the brims; they being both flat and rolled of various widths running to about three inches (for those that are rolled)—the flat brims even wider at times, resembling one of the Quaker brims. The same general idea goes into extreme shapes which droop both front and back. A shape of this sort is about seventeen inches long and thirteen inches wide, while the crown is from eight to nine inches high.

The Postillon shape is another of the prominent styles. In the Postillons the crowns are usually the regulation with great variation in the brims, which go to the length of twenty-two inches, width fourteen inches. Very large flat shapes have not been done away with, and through wide flanges above the brim or collars placed flat at the base of the crowns, they look different and very effective. Shapes of this sort have diameters of about twenty-three and twenty-four inches. Another feature is the Coolie shape, drooping parasol fashion all the way round. These have tall trimmings protruding from the center of the tops, usually some sort of wing or feather with a cabochon base of plumage or silk material.

The dress shapes have (almost all) the elongated shape idea, and head sizes are almost invariably large to permit the hats to come down rather far, but not to obstruct the vision, as was the case not so long ago. In the smaller shapes there are variations of a helmet, for instance having the sides come out in straight tabs above the ears, and placing a collar of about five inches around the back of the crown, turned down like the collar of an ulster, when it is half way up. Draped hats are long, too—up to eighteen inches. There are a few small draped shapes, but generally height is thought of in some way and when the crown isn't high, the trimming is "a la colonel."

There are crowns that are thimble-shape as tall as nine inches, but usually the crowns are more moderate, say from three and one-half to four and one-half inches.

M'GRAW OUGHT TO PITCH "DOC" CRANDALL MONDAY; SAVING RUBE FOR TUESDAY

By Dick Jemison.

John McGraw and the New York Giants have a gambler's chance at best for the world's series rag. Why not take it?

"Ole Doc" Otis Crandall, his relief warhorse, has not been given a chance to work at the start of a game in this series. Here is the opportunity.

It will be a chance, just as any gambler would be taking on the turn of the card. If he loses the pennant is gone. If he wins the Giants are just as strongly fortified for the next game.

Suppose McGraw does use Marquard today, as seems to be his intention, and loses, what's gained. If he wins he has no one to rely on but Mathewson, and Matty, great pitcher that he is, admits that he is getting old and cannot work as regularly as he used to, though he certainly twirled one grand game on Saturday, only to lose.

Take Stahl's Chance.

Stahl turned loose Bedient at the Giants on a chance and got away with it. Why can't McGraw get away with Crandall under the same conditions?

Then he will have Marquard fresher from another day's rest ready to hurl the game of his life, confident, in view of his victory the last time out, and spurred by the victory of "Doc," the day previous, and the "last ditch" fight of the men behind him.

Psychologically, the pitching of Crandall today would be a good move. There are countless numbers of fans who believe he can win, and I believe it, too. Then if Marquard can hurl the class of ball that he did in his last out, he would bring the Giants back on even terms with the Red Sox, with Mathewson rested from Saturday to Wednesday, able to pitch in his old-time form.

Bedient Uncertain.

On the other hand, should Crandall and Marquard win, Collins and Wood would be the defeated pitchers, leaving O'Brien and Bedient as Stahl's only reliable pitchers, and Bedient, with the world's series depending on the one game, would not hurl as grand a game this time. It could not be expected of him. He is but a youngster in experience, this being his first world's series, in fact his first season in major league ball.

This would give the Giants the strategic edge, with the old master, Mathewson, primed for the occasion, pitching a game that if lost there would be no comeback to. Under such conditions he is practically unbeatable.

Much depends on McGraw's pitching selection today.

JACKETS PLAY BAPTISTS BEARING ON STATE TITLE

Georgia Tech, encouraged by her victory Saturday over the University of Alabama, will get to work with a vengeance today in preparation for the coming game with Mercer university at Macon next Saturday.

This game will have a direct bearing upon the final outcome of the state football championship this season, and both elevens will do their utmost to capture the battle.

At the start of the season the edge favored Mercer, according to all the dope that could be obtained, but since the teams have been playing for three weeks the edge now veers to the Tech side of the ledger.

Tech will be outweighed by Mercer, but they are sure to make amends for that by their work under the new rules, with which they are showing a great familiarity.

THOMAS LIPTON READY FOR RACE

New York, October 13.—Sir Thomas Lipton, arriving by the steamer Carconia today, said he proposed to discuss with the New York Yacht Club officials terms under which he might challenge for the international yachting trophy which he has thrice vainly tried to lift.

"I am always ready to challenge," said the English baron, "and if the New York Yacht Club would modify the rule requiring the challenging boat to cross the Atlantic on its own bottom I believe Icould build a boat to hold her own with any American-built boat of the same type, style and weight. If I built a freak boat and sail her across they will build a lighter one here to beat me. There is no sport in that."

Sir Thomas said if he built another challenger he would name her the Shamrock IV. He said he had won 23 out of 29 races in which he had competed in European waters. "Yachting as a pastime in England is falling off," he said, "but in Germany it is becoming more and more popular. At Kiel this year I saw the finest yacht races I ever witnessed with as many as 129 boats in one race."

The Cost of Medical Education.

The cost of medical education is increasing, according to the figures given in the annual report of the Council on Medical Education of the American Medical association. In the report of The Journal of the association are tables showing the total amount actually expended for the instruction, the average amount expended per student and the average amount of tuition received from each student. A table including ten representative medical schools shows that the average amount spent for instruction by each school was $61,056, representing an average expenditure per student of $479, of which these colleges received, from the students, only an average of $125.24 tuition per student. According to these figures, medical schools lose about $350 on each student. The reason for this heavy expense is that modern scientific laboratories in anatomy, chemistry, physiology, pharmacology and other scientific subjects necessary to a modern medical education are very expensive to equip and maintain, and that in order to give a medical student a modern, scientific education, it is necessary for the medical school to spend three or four times as much money as a student pays for his instruction. This means that conducting medical schools has ceased to be profitable as a business enterprise, and that the only medical schools that can continue to exist are those which are parts of a state university or of an endowed institution. Another reason for the heavy loss sustained by medical schools is that there are more schools than are neded, and as a result the students are divided up among the existing schools. It is therefore in the itnerests of economy, as well as for the better training of the coming physicians of the country that the number of medical schools should be reduced, especially as this can best be accomplished by closing those without adequate equipment and proper financial suport.

WALSH BEATEN BY CHICAGO CUBS

Chance's Men Have Won Two Games, Callahan's None.

Chicago, October 13.—The Chicago National league club defeated the local club of the American league, 4 to 2, in the series which is to decide the city championship. This is the second victory for the Nationals. Two games resulted in a tie.

The game today was a pitchers' battle between Walsh and Reulbach. Walsh allowed seven hits, two of which were doubles and one a home run, while Reulbach was touched for eight, four of which were doubles.

Never before has so large a crowd passed through the turnstiles of the National league park here. The official attendance as announced by the National commission was 30,393; the total receipts $21,197. Of this amount, the National commission will receive $2,119.70; each club gets $3,815.46, and $11,446.38 goes to the players' pool.

The crowd became so unmanageable in the early part of the game that it was impossible for a large detail of police to keep them from crowding on to the infield.

A dozen or more park attaches and ushers went to the assistance of the police, and when this failed to put the crowd back the National league players, each armed with a bat, went to the rescue. After some time the crowd was quieted, and the game was resumed.

Ivory Smuggling in Africa.

Ivory smuggling is looked upon as a very serious crime in British East Africa, and this is only as it should be, for, in order to secure the ivory, the traders have to kill great numbers of elephants. The game preservation laws, particularly as regards elephants, are most severe, and woe betide the man who is caught breaking the game regulations or in possession of illicit spoils of the chase.

The smuggling of ivory, therefore, is treated in the same manner as smuggling gems and clothing into the United States, illicit diamond buying in South Africa, or other forms of smuggling in England. The rigid laws, however, do not prevent the Arabs and Indians from indulging in an illegal trade in ivory on a large scale. Many a caravan of huge elephant tusks is brought miles and miles from the interior of Central Africa to Mombasa, and there surreptitiously smuggled out of the country in dhows, or Arab sailing boats.

It is the keen desire of every police and administrative official of the British East African government to capture one of these ivory caravans; but, despite their efforts, many a consignment escapes their eagle eyes and finds its way to the markets of Zanzibar and Bombay.

Under present conditions the democratic party is best suited to furnish the nucleus for a new conservative party, since it is farthest removed from the old-fashioned, reactionary conservatism. It is the one party whose organization has stood the test of time. Under the leadership of Jefferson and Jackson it was distinctly the people's party. For fifty years (save for the two Cleveland administrations) it has been out of power and has hence escaped, in the eyes of the people, damaging association with predatory wealth. Just now the party has chosen for its leader an eminent educator well equipped for the task of giving direction to the new conservative organization.

To the attainment of a new radical party the path is not so clear. The long and continuous tenure of office of the republican party during the time of the growth and strengthening of great abuses serves as a disqualifying factor for the fulfillment of the function of either party in the immediate future. It is thoroughly disqualified for leadership in the new conservatism. If, however, out of the republican party there could be extemporized at once an aggressive radical party which would o strip the democratic party in its bid radical support, the result would b many respects ideal.

DRUGGISTS 25c AND 50c

Some Important Football Games Next Saturday

Some important football games are scheduled for the gridirons of the south, east and west for the coming week.

Principal interest in the south, of course, will be in the Vanderbilt-Georgia game at Ponce de Leon park, a story of which is carried elsewhere.

The Auburn-Clemson game at Auburn will give a line to the football fans of the south of the strength of these two elevens, who in their preliminary games have shown good form. Auburn is regarded as the "dark horse" this year.

The Alabama-Mississippi A. & M. game and the Virginia-V. M. I. battle are also ones of interest.

In the east there are two important battles. Yale plays the Army in their annual game at West Point, and Pennsylvania tackles Brown at Philadelphia.

LOCUST GROVE PLAYS GORDON

TROUBLE BREWING IN HILL COUNTRY

Clash of Races Feared in Northeast Georgia.

Many Blacks Are Being Driven Away by Angry Whites. Federal Authorities Asked to Investigate Mailing of Threatening Letters.

By Britt Craig.

Gainesville, Ga., October 13.—(Special.)—Resulting from the recent reign of terror in Forsyth county, racial hostilities have broken out in northeast Georgia that threaten to become as serious as conditions during the period which followed the close of the civil war.

Race sentiment has swept in a wave over the entire hill country of the state. Generated in Cumming, the county seat of Forsyth county, when two white women died as results of recent criminal assaults, hostile attitude toward the black race has spread throughout the mountains.

The situation has assumed proportions so serious that the United States commissioner, Judge J. B. Gaston, has been appealed to by residents of Hall and adjoining counties. He and other government authorities are now investigating conditions and the source of recent uprisings against negroes of this section.

Gainesville Invaded by Negroes.

Gainesville is being invaded as a haven of refuge by hordes of negroes from Forsyth and neighboring counties, who have been driven from their homes by indignant whites. The negro sections of the city have been flooded with safety-seeking negroes, and scores of shanties and dwelling houses shelter as many as six or more families.

All roads entering Gainesville from the southeast are flanked by improvised camps, sheltering the fleeing blacks, and many families are forced to live temporarily in the wagons in which they fled from their homes.

This influx of negroes has created a wave of resentment throughout the hot-tempered and lawless element of the section. Demonstrations expressive of this attitude have already resulted, and to cope with the situation Chief of Police "Bud" Smith has been forced to strengthen the police force.

Anonymous letters have been sent almost every planter in the hill country, demanding the dismissal of all negro laborers, and their ejection from the premises. Most of these missives threaten arson and dynamiting of the houses in which the negroes live as penalty for disobeyance. In many instances, mobs of whites appeared at negro homes on farms and openly demanded evacuation of the shacks and shanties.

These threatening letters and placards posted on mail boxes and in negro neighborhoods are being forwarded to Judge Gaston for investigation. Federal action probably will be taken to punish the persons sending the threatening missives through the mails.

House Bombarded by Mob.

Friday night a mob of whites appeared at the home of Joe Hood, a negro, living about three miles north of Gainesville. A spokesman demanded Hood's removal from the vicinity. The negro slammed the door in the white man's face. A fusillade of shots was fired by the crowd into the house. Hood, his wife and family barricaded themselves behind mattresses and bedding, and escaped unhurt, although their home was riddled with bullets. Large holes were rent in the sides of the building, showing the effect of shotgun shells, while the entire side was peppered with pistol and Winchester bullets.

Sheriff Crow is investigating the bombardment of the negro house. He already has secured clews which point to the leaders of the mob, and their arrests are expected at any time. Not only has the entire section suffered from the abandonment of farms and loss of labor from the fleeing negroes, but prominent business men of Gainesville have received the brunt of attacks by hostile whites. Many black chauffeurs of the city have been ordered to give up their jobs, and anonymous letters demanding the dismissal of negro employees have been sent to scores of business men and well-known residents.

C. F. W. Gunther, proprietor and manager of Gunther's bakery, who leases a storeroom in the business section, occupied by John Kidd, a negro pressing club operator, Friday received an unsigned letter threatening violence if Kidd was not evicted from the premises. Mr. Gunther refused to take action, and the negro remained until nightfall in the establishment.

At dusk a crowd of white men and boys began to gather menacingly around the pressing club. Kidd locked the doors of his shop, and announced to the crowd that he would move immediately.

Angered Whites Threaten Clerk.

A mob of white men that gathered at the depot at Flowery Branch, a small countryside nine miles from Gainesville, Saturday afternoon as the New York, Atlanta and New Orleans limited train of the Southern road stopped for orders, threatened violence to W. A. Flake, a negro mail clerk on one of the mail cars. Cursing the negro, and surging dangerously around the car, the crowd frightened Flake until he cowered in a corner of the coach. D. P. White, chief clerk of the car, stepped to the doorway and ordered the mob away, threatening to shoot the first who attempted to mount the car. The train remained at the station only a few moments, and pulled out before further demonstration.

Rumors spread rapidly and freely around Gainesville Saturday and Sunday that hostilities would result if prompt action were not taken by the police and federal authorities. The negroes, too, it is rumored, nerved by the augmentation of refuge-seeking blacks in the city, are planning an uprising against repeated attacks upon their race.

It is also probable a meeting will be held some time Monday by the cooler-headed residents to prevail upon city authorities to strengthen the police force and take precautions to prevent racial disturbance. Anticipating trouble, Sheriff Crow already has enlarged his staff of deputies and prepared to avert probable disturbance.

FIRE INSURANCE AGENTS ARRIVING

Georgia Underwriters Will Meet Today, and National on Tuesday.

Today the advance guard of the big national fire insurance convention will reach Atlanta. About 200 members of the Georgia Local Underwriters' association will gather for their annual convention. Their session will last only one day, leading up to the conclave of 500 fire insurance men from all parts of the United States, who will gather for the national convention opening Tuesday.

The state convention will be held in the convention hall of the Piedmont hotel, being called to order at 11 o'clock Monday morning by President Morris Harris, of Macon.

At the morning session the president will make his annual address, and the report of the secretary, Frank B. West, of Macon, will be heard. After the business of the convention is finished the election of officers will be held at the afternoon session, and the place will be selected for the 1913 convention.

The state association and the Atlanta Insurance exchange will be the hosts to the delegates to the national convention, and practically all of the state delegates will remain over for the three days' session of the national association, which will be held in the Auditorium-Armory.

The following chairmen of committees will have charge of the arrangements for the national convention:

Fred W. Cole, general chairman; Coke Davis, chairman on arrangements and publicity committees; G. Arthur Howell, chairman on entertainment; A. L. Waldo, chairman on finance, and Carleton Y. Smith, chairman on reception.

PARADE AS PROTEST AGAINST PROFANITY

Columbus, Ohio, October 13.—Over 7,000 Catholic men, members of the Holy Name society, paraded in silence and without music of any kind through the principal streets today as a protest against profanity. The only sound accompanying the tramping feet was the chimes of Trinity Episcopal church, which played in honor of the Catholics. Arrived at St. Joseph's cathedral, the marchers knelt on the lawn and in the street and pronounced after Bishop Hartley, of this diocese, a renewal of their vows against the use of profanity.

The third party's interest in the workingman is largely how he can be worked once more.—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

COMPTON NAMED FARM PHYSICIAN

Dr. J. Addison Price Is Named Physician of State Reformatory.

Dr. Guy D. Compton, of Milledgeville, has been appointed farm physician by the state prison commission. He will succeed the late Dr. J. P. Atkinson, who held the place for twelve years. Dr. Compton has been acting physician for the past year and filled the place in a highly satisfactory manner.

The commission has also appointed Dr. J. Addison Price, of Milledgeville, physician of the state reformatory. Dr. Compton will live on the farm, it being the intention of the state to provide a residence for him within a short time.

Now you Can Get Beer Without That "SKUNKY" Taste!

All you have to do is to ask for Schlitz in Brown Bottles.

Sunlight grows hops, but spoils the beer.

"Beer acted upon by light soon takes up the very disagreeable, so-called 'light taste,' and also a repulsive, skunk-like odor," says no less an authority than the Wahl-Henius Institute of Fermentology, the scientific authorities on the subject. "Beer so affected," they say, "is offensive to the palate of most consumers."

Light starts decay even in pure beer. Dark glass gives the best protection against light. The Brown Bottle protects Schlitz purity from the brewery to your glass.

Why don't you, too, drink Schlitz? More and more people every year are demanding it.

FROM EX-MAYOR ROBERT F. MADDOX

Mr. Aldine Chambers entered the city council the first year of my administration as mayor of Atlanta. . . .

During the first year he served as councilman from the Ninth ward, and by close study of the many problems coming up for discussion and solution, by constant and regular attendance to his committee meetings, by his courageous standing for the things he thought right, he soon won the respect and admiration of his colleagues in council. I believe it was generally agreed that during the two years I was mayor, no man attended to his duties as a member of the city council more earnestly and regularly than did Mr. Chambers. He not only attended the meetings of committees of which he was a member, but his interest in the city's welfare prompted him to attend other committee meetings and no subject came up for action from any committee of council with which he was not familiar and intelligently prepared to vote.

ALWAYS FAIR

He was always fair and above board in his dealings, and never tried to take advantage of those who opposed his views.

WHILE CHAIRMAN OF THE STREET COMMITTEE, HE REALIZED THAT, AS ATLANTA HAD THAT YEAR DOUBLED THE NUMBER OF SQUARE MILES OF TERRITORY IN THE CITY LIMITS, IT WOULD BE IMPOSSIBLE TO DO THE NECESSARY WORK ON THE STREETS WITH THE SMALL AVAILABLE FORCE FROM THE STOCKADE. HE URGED A CLOSER CO-OPERATION BETWEEN THE STREET COMMITTEE OF COUNCIL AND THE BOARD OF COUNTY COMMISSIONERS, AND, LARGELY DUE TO HIS EFFORTS, THERE HAS BEEN MORE CO-OPERATION BETWEEN THE COUNTY COMMISSIONERS AND THE CITY COUNCIL, AND MORE WORK HAS BEEN DONE BY THE COUNTY WITHIN THE CITY LIMITS IN THE PAST FOUR YEARS THAN IN ANY OTHER SIMILAR PERIOD IN OUR HISTORY. . . .

SCORES RING CHARGE

On account of the fact that he has won many friends and loyally supported some who have sought office, his opponent, finding nothing in his character or ability to criticise, as a last resort says he is a member of a ring. I do not believe any such ring exists. I have never heard what this ring is supposed to have done to make it so dangerous. If it is said to be dishonest, no such act has been found; if it is politically a menace, its power was not developed in the recent primary.

Atlanta is now growing at the rate of 10,000 a year. There are many important matters confronting the city to meet the needs of the rapidly increasing population, and Mr. Chambers is perfectly familiar with them all. He was one of the first to realize the importance of the recent bond issue, which was such a benefit to the city, and no man in Atlanta battled harder for its passage, while his present opponent was sulking in his tent.

Mr. Chambers is a young man, in the prime of life, and well equipped with that energy and progressiveness which has made the Atlanta Spirit famous. In a city of 200,000 people no man should pre-empt the high office of mayor, and it is well for us to encourage our fellow-citizens to take an active part in our city government, with the understanding that their faithful efforts may be rewarded by promotion.

While there are other and far more impelling reasons to elect Mr. Chambers besides his honesty, experience, ability and fitness for the office, I believe the people of Atlanta can safely rely upon Mr. Chambers as mayor to sustain with dignity and decency the supremacy of our city and to maintain the good name of Atlanta.

I respectfully and earnestly request your vote for him.

Yours truly,

During the past four years I have had frequent opportunities to come in contact with Mr. Aldine Chambers in his official capacity. I take pleasure in stating that I believe him to be the best posted man in the city of Atlanta, with reference to the city's affairs. D. R. WILDER, Manufacturer

To Whom It May Concern:

I have known Mr. Aldine Chambers for several years. It has been my privilege, as well as my pleasure, to come in contact with him in a business as well as social way. I take great pleasure, therefore, in saying that I consider Mr. Chambers one of our best informed business men. I am perfectly satisfied that he is strictly honest, and can and will administer the affairs of this city in a business-like way if intrusted to him. He is unselfish, broad-minded and liberal. I can not too strongly suggest to the citizens of Atlanta who have this city's welfare at stake, to do their duty on next Tuesday, and if they do this, the city at large will have no cause for regret, and our affairs will progress rapidly and be economically managed under his supervision.

Very truly yours,

WALTER J. STOY, Printer

To the Voters of Atlanta:

It has been my pleasure during the past several years to be thrown in close contact with Mr. Aldine Chambers, and as a member of council for a term of two years, I have had ample opportunity to watch his career, politically and officially. I have found him to be a man of unquestioned leadership, progressive, fearless, honest and fair in all of his dealings where the interest of the city and citizens of Atlanta were concerned.

I wish to extend my unqualified indorsement and offer my hearty support of Mr. Chambers in his laudable ambition, and would like to know and feel that all of my friends will cast their vote for the man whom I know to be eminently qualified in every way for the exalted position of Mayor of our great city.

Very respectfully,

BOLLING H. JONES, Mfgr.

To Atlantans:

Having had good opportunities to know Mr. Aldine Chambers, one of the candidates for Mayor of Atlanta, I feel that I can say to my friends and the public generally that I regard Mr. Chambers as an energetic, practical business man; one who knows the needs of the city thoroughly. If elected, I feel confident he will use his knowledge and devote his tireless energies to the administration of the affairs of the city.

No mistake will be made by elevating him to the position of Mayor.

Very truly yours,
BOLLING H. JONES.

WILMER L. MOORE, Insurance

To the Voters of Atlanta;

My decision to support Mr. Aldine Chambers in his race for Mayor of Atlanta was reached after a careful investigation of his official record. I became convinced that he was one of the most thoroughly informed men connected with the city's affairs. He is a man of sound judgment, and that he was prompted by the best intentions in all of his acts. At a great personal sacrifice to himself he has given unsparingly of his time to the city's business. I am firmly convinced that he will give as Mayor of the City of Atlanta an administration which will meet with the full approval of the unprejudiced, thinking people of our city.

Yours very truly,
WILMER L. MOORE.

SHEPARD BRYAN, Lawyer

To the Voters of Atlanta:

When I first knew Aldine Chambers, ten years ago, he was a struggling young lawyer recently from the country. His sturdiness of character, his ambition to make his way as a lawyer in the city he had adopted as his home, his energy and earnestness, his thorough and capable attention to such business as I was able to give him, his sincerity and singleness of purpose, his straightforward ways in everything, convinced me that he deserved success, and I knew he would win success.

I have known him well all these years, and can say that he is worthy of all confidence and trust.

I am satisfied that the people of Atlanta will on next Tuesday make him Mayor.

Respectfully,
SHEPARD BRYAN.

JAMES R. NUTTING, Insurance

To the Public:

I have known Mr. Aldine Chambers intimately for the past two years, our work as members of the City Council having brought us in almost daily contact, and I am, therefore, in position to speak intelligently of his business qualifications.

There are in the City Council some of the most capable business men in Atlanta, and of the whole number there is no one who has a clearer or more comprehensive grasp of the intricate and difficult questions constantly confronting that body than Mr. Chambers. He is eminently fitted for the office of Mayor, not only by experience and training, but also by his high character as a man, his strong common sense, his excellent ability and his readiness and effectiveness as a public speaker.

I know him well, and in my opinion, he will make one of the very best Mayors Atlanta has ever had.

JAMES R. NUTTING.

J. C. HARRISON, City Salesman

To the Voters of Atlanta:

It has been my pleasure to know Aldine Chambers for several years. I had the pleasure of serving in the council with him. He is one of the best informed men about municipal affairs in Atlanta, and he has the ability, integrity and backbone to put this information to a good use for our citizens.

Atlanta will honor herself next Tuesday when she puts Mr. Chambers at the head of this city for the next two years.

Respectfully,
J. C. HARRISON.

EDWARD C. PETERS.

HENRY B. WEY, Merchant

Mr. Aldine Chambers:

I am supporting you in your candidacy because of my conscientious belief that your election to the office of Mayor of Atlanta would be for the best interests of all of our citizens.

Your faithful, efficient work in Council through the years of service you have cheerfully given, the ability and fairness you have manifested as an official, the careful, thorough study you have given to the needs of our rapidly growing city, and its important problems yet to be solved, and above all, your integrity and moral character, in my judgment, fully qualify you to perform the duties of the office to which you now aspire with credit to yourself and to the satisfaction of all our people.

For the above reasons I urge my personal friends and all those who know me to give you their earnest, cordial support at the coming election.

Yours very truly,
HENRY B. WEY.

C. H. KELLEY.

CHAS. I. BRANAN, Merchant

To My Friends:

I have known Mr. Aldine Chambers for several years. I know him as a loyal son, his father having lived next door to me, and I know something of Aldine Chambers' trueness as a son, when his father was burdened with great responsibilities. I admire Mr. Chambers' type of man, for such men "love their fellow-men." Aldine Chambers' election as Mayor of this great City of ours means that we will have a man on the job when you call and will not be led off to "play marbles" on his way to duty.

R. J. GUINN, Insurance

To the Citizens of Atlanta:

I am intimately acquainted with Mr. Aldine Chambers. He is a gentleman in the true sense of the word. He is straightforward, honest and capable; and, in my opinion, has the stalwart character and business capacity to make as able mayor in every way as Atlanta has had in twenty-five years.

REUBEN R. ARNOLD, Lawyer

To Atlanta Voters:

Mr. Aldine Chambers has been well known to me for many years. I regard him as an excellent business man, and as a member of council one of the most useful, conscientious and progressive men who has ever been in that body.

Mr. Chambers gives careful attention to every matter which comes before him and brings to bear intelligence, firmness and integrity upon every municipal problem with which I have known him to deal. In my opinion he would make an excellent mayor.

REUBEN R. ARNOLD.

EARLE E. GRIGGS, Printer

Hon. Aldine Chambers:

Some four months ago I wrote you a letter urging you to enter the mayoralty race, for I believed that just at this time the city needed a man in that position who understood the municipal problems, who was in close touch with the city's affairs, and who really were such a man. So firmly do I believe in your splendid qualifications for the place that were I not pledged to you in that letter I should vote for you anyway.

Sincerely hoping you are successful in the coming election, I am,

Your friend,
EARLE E. GRIGGS.

B. LEE SMITH, Printer

To Atlanta Voters:

After having served in the City Council, and on various committees with Mr. Aldine Chambers, I say without hesitation that he is one of the best-posted men in Atlanta on municipal affairs, clean, courageous and honest. He has always been fair to all classes. He will make Atlanta the best Mayor we have ever had.

Yours very truly,

LOUIS GHOLSTIN, Mfgr.

To the Voters of Atlanta:

It has been my pleasure to know personally Mr. Aldine Chambers for several years.

I have watched his public career, and his active work in the City Council for the past four years. I consider him one of the best informed men in municipal affairs in Atlanta. I believe him to be thoroughly competent to handle the important matters which will come before the city in the next two years. There is no question in my mind as to his honesty, and I believe if elected Mayor next Tuesday Atlanta will be proud of the splendid record which he will make while serving us at the head of the City government.

Respectfully,
LOUIS GHOLSTIN.

A. P. HERRINGTON, Real Estate

To Atlanta Citizens:

Man is the noblest work of God, and all men admire a man who sprang from an humble home and pushed himself forward to merit the confidence of his fellow-man, and I am constrained to believe that the men in the humble walks of life, like myself, will always honor such a man and be proud to cast a ballot for him. I am no politician, neither do I belong to any ring, and I appeal to my friends and to those unknown to me to cast their ballot for Aldine Chambers for Mayor, the man who has certainly won their admiration by working himself up to this high standard, and may the Atlanta spirit be heralded abroad that our new Mayor will be pushing our City forward in like manner that he has done for himself.

A. P. HERRINGTON.

ASA G. CANDLER, Capitalist

He attends with zeal, promptness and care to affairs entrusted to him. He has qualities, executive and mental, which fit him for the high service incumbent upon the Mayor of a great and good city.

ASA G. CANDLER.

EUGENE M. MITCHELL, Lawyer

To the People of Atlanta:

I have known Mr. Aldine Chambers ever since he has lived in Atlanta. He is an able and upright member of the Atlanta Bar. While I was a member of the board of education I was impressed with his intimate knowledge of the affairs of the City and his untiring industry in the performance of his official duties.

EUGENE M. MITCHELL.

F. B. EAVES, Machinist

To the Voters of Atlanta:

I have known Mr. Chambers for the last three years and have found him honest and fair in all of his dealings. The laboring men of Atlanta can well afford to trust their interests in his hands; he will safeguard them at all times and improve them when possible to do so. He has stood manfully by the teachers, policemen and firemen and all of the poorer paid employees of Atlanta; isn't it fair, then, that we should stand by him on the 15th?

F. B. EAVES.

JOHN W. GRANT, Capitalist

To the Citizens of Atlanta:

It was my pleasure to serve in the General Council for three years with Mr. Aldine Chambers, and I learned to esteem him as one of its ablest members. He was always present at committee meetings and familiar with the details of every question before it came to a final vote.

While at times I differed with him, I always respected his opinions and never doubted his honesty or ability. I am sure he will make an excellent Mayor.

Very respectfully,
JOHN W. GRANT.

D. NYM McCULLOUGH, Merchant

To the Citizens of Atlanta:

I take this opportunity of saying that I have known Mr. Aldine Chambers for several years, and have come in contact with him constantly in his official service as a member of Council.

I have found him always well-informed, capable, courteous and courageous. He possesses an unusual degree of aptitude for municipal affairs. He is honest, fair and progressive. I believe his election to the position of Mayor will advance the interests of the City.

I. N. RAGSDALE, Stock Dealer

To the Public:

I have served in the General Council with Mr. Aldine Chambers during the past three years, and have been associated very intimately with him on a number of important committees. He always gave close attention to his official duties, and while we did not always agree about public questions, he always impressed me by his fairness to all sections, by his breadth of view and by his progressive ideas.

I consider Mr. Chambers particularly well fitted to be our Mayor for the next two years.

Respectfully,
I. N. RAGSDALE.

HOMER ASHLEY, Foreman Metzger Mattress Co.

To My Friends in Atlanta:

I take this occasion to say that I have had several years' acquaintance with Mr. Aldine Chambers. I take great pleasure in indorsing him for Mayor.

I know that he will continue to accord to all classes of our people the same fair treatment that has always characterized his past career.

I commend him to my friends as the best man they can vote for in the primary on Tuesday.

Respectfully,
HOMER ASHLEY.

JOHN T. HARDEMAN, Machinist

To the Voters of Atlanta:

The time has come when we must let the world know whether we stand for those things which are God-like and moral, or whether we will allow ourselves and our city to submit to the leadership of one who represents the other side of the question. I do not know Mr. Chambers personally, but I have confidence in the men who are supporting him, and further know that if there was anything against his character it would have developed during his official term in Council. I do know Mr. Woodward, and my knowledge of him, past and present, is not that which will inspire the confidence of God-fearing people.

As a citizen of Atlanta, and as the head of a family, I call upon all thinking voters to assert themselves on Tuesday and forever stamp out this menace known as "Woodwardism," which has been a blot on the record of Atlanta.

Respectfully,
J. T. HARDEMAN.

CLARENCE HAVERTY, Merchant

To the Voters of Atlanta:

During my service in the City Council I have had opportunity to observe the work of Mr. Aldine Chambers, and he has impressed me by his close attention to his official duties, by his familiarity with all questions that come up for discussion, and by his fairness to all classes and all sections. I have a high opinion of Mr. Chambers' character and ability, and consider him well qualified for the office of Mayor.

Respectfully,

REBELS KIDNAP RICH AMERICAN

John T. Cameron Is Seized by Mexican Insurgents.

Wealthy Texan Being Held for Ransom—Cameron Was Taken When the Rebels Held Up Passenger Train South of El Paso.

El Paso, Texas, October 13.—Rebels late today held up a passenger train 150 miles south of this point, on the border, rifled the mail and express car and kidnaped John T. Cameron, a wealthy stock broker of El Paso. The train was allowed to proceed south.

Cameron wa son his way to purchase cattle to be imported into the United States. It is believed he is held either for ransom or to prevent further tsock shipments from the districts held by rebels. A Mexican passenger also was held by the rebels, who molested no others, according to the report.

Opening of the Mexico Northwestern raoilway after a lapse of traffic for a week, caused by destruction of the road by rebels, makes known large recent losses by the company. Aside from the destruction of many trestles on the line, a train of twenty-four cars of choice lumber, destined for the United States, was burned. The loss of the lumber train is estimated at more than $50,000.

Federal troops continue to offer no protection to the railway, remaining in the larger towns, say passengers arriving here. Some significance is attached to the departure to the state capital of General Antonio Rabago, commander of the district. It is understood he has been recalled to Mexico City. Troops are on the way to the city of Chihuahua to replace Rabago's troops.

38 MEXICAN REBELS EXECUTED BY THE FORCES OF MADERO

Laredo, Texas, October 13.—Thirty-eight Mexican rebels were executed by federals yesterday at Esperanza, Coahuila, according to William Jennings, one of the owners of the Blocker ranch near Muzquiz. Mr. Jennings, who arrived here today, said that when he left the federals were in close pursuit of a rebel band of 100 supposed to be retreating toward the Rio Grande.

How Canada Deals With Monopoly.

When so many persons have urged publicity as a remedy for the evils of trusts and monopolies, it is singular that so little attention has been attracted by its application in Canada and by the first law to secure its application in the United States.

The Canadian law of 1910 was the outcome of failure to get adequate results from previous legislation. The law of 1897 had aimed to give relief through a reduction of the tariff by an order-in-council when monopoly was shown. It was brought into effective service only once. In May, 1900, the newspaper publishers of the dominion, acting through the Canadian Press association, alleged that there was a combination among the manufacturers of news printing paper, and that it compelled Canadian publishers to pay much higher rates than were charged for paper of the same quality and for the same uses in the United States. The justice who was appointed high commissioner held that the association had made out its case, and as a result the duty was reduced from 25 to 15 per cent by order-in-council.

This remedy could serve only in case of a monopoly aided by a tariff, and could not meet the needs of the shoe manufacturers who protested against the methods of the United Shoe Machinery company. Their grievances and the general need of a more comprehensive remedy led to the passage of the law of 1910, entitled "An act to provide for the investigation of combines, monopolies, trusts and mergers which may enhance prices or restrict competition to the detriment of consumers." It is understood to have been the handiwork of W. L. Mackenzie King, minister of labor, whose law for the investigation of industrial disputes had been so successful that he undertook to apply the same methods of treatment to monopolies. So he provided that when six or more persons are of opinion that a "combine" exists, and that by reason of it prices have been enhanced or competition has been restricted, to the detriment of consumers, such persons may make an application to a judge for an order directing an investigation. If upon a hearing he satisfies himself that there is reasonable ground for the allegation, and that in the public interest an investigation should be held, he is to order it. Thereupon the minister of labor is to appoint a board of three members, one named by the petitioners, a second by the persons to be investigated, and a third chosen by the two, or if they cannot agree, by the minister himself.

If, as a result of the investigation that follows, it appears to the satisfaction of the governor in council that "with regard to any article there exists any combine to promote unduly the advantage of the manufacturers or dealers at the expense of the consumers," the tariff on that article may be reduced or removed. If it is shown that the holder of a patent has used it so as unduly to limit the facilities for transporting, producing, manufacturing, supplying, storing, or dealing in any article that may be a subject of trade or commerce, or unduly to prevent, limit, or lessen its manufacture or production, or unreasonably to enhance its price, or unduly to prevent or lessen competition, the patent may be annulled by the exchequer court after due hearing. A third remedy is a fine of not more than $1,000 a day for continuance of any monopolistic practice that the investigation may disclose.

GEORGIA IS RICH IN FARM LANDS

David D. Long Talks of Conditions in This State.

Georgia is rich in the finest farm land in the United States, capable of yielding hundreds of dollars an acre in crops for which it is suited, but not utilized except to grow cotton by old-fashioned methods, said David D. Long last night in discussing his work on the soil survey of Georgia, which is being done by the State College of Agriculture.

Mr. Long is an expert in this work, formerly connected with the United States department of agriculture, and is thoroughly familiar with conditions not merely here, but in other states. The survey of Chattooga county has just been completed, and it is probable that the work on Stewart county will soon begin.

He has just gotten out of the hospital, where he was laid up for several weeks following a tumble over the mountains of north Georgia—"just an incident to the day's work!"

All Kinds of Soil.

"Georgia has almost every kind of soil known," said Mr. Long, "but the possibilities are not utilized. People are content to raise short crops of cotton where they might make hundreds of dollars specializing. That is what this survey is designed to remedy.

"A soil survey is in effect a soil inventory. We are going over the state taking stock of the soil resources, and when it is finished every farmer, no matter how small his acreage, will know just what kind of soil he has, what it is good for, and how it should be treated.

"Take Chattooga county, for instance. Lying in the Appalachian valley, we found twenty different kinds of soil. Each one is different, yet the same crops by the same methods were being raised on all of them. There is an abundance of the famous Clarksville gravelly loam, which raises the best peaches, strawberries and cantaloupes in the world, but hardly a dozen farmers have taken advantage of that fact. Those who have gotten wise have actually cleared close to $200 per acre.

Like Pennsylvania Soil.

"Chattooga county is in parts the same soil as Lancaster county, Pennsylvania—and you know that Lancaster county is recognized as the richest land in the United States. Both are rich in limestone, and can be farmed for more than 100 years without any appreciable depletion.

"The survey consists in two things, a map of the county, showing every house, stream and ridge, and the different soils indicated by colors. This is supplemented by the report, the report taking up the characteristics of the land, and makes recommendations as to what should be raised and how. Advice is given whether to rotate, or subsoil, whether to plant cover crops during the winter, what leguminous crops to plant, and all the details out enable the farmer to get the best out of his land. In all cases we endeavor to prescribe cultural methods to increase the yield, rather than fertilizer.

How to Secure Reports.

"These reports are issued by the United States department of agriculture. They can be secured from them, or the state college, or through the congressmen of the state.

"There is another thing I would like to say about Chattooga and the north Georgia territory. It is as fine cattle and stock coountry as there is anywhere—and the average number of animals to the farm is less than half a dozen. The natural grasses suit the raising of stock, while the food crops would make cattle to rival the finest western beef.

"Home-seekers everywhere are beginning to realize that Georgia is the place for them. They are coming back from Texas, and Kansas and the Dakotas, after they have houses and crops blown away a few times. They can get land in Georgia for one-tenth what it is worth."

DEATH COMES TO VETERAN WHILE SLEEPING IN WAGON

Life was weary—nightfall brought a welcome rest for J. L. Bosworth, an old confederate veteran. He climbed into his peddler's wagon, pulled the straw over his tired body and dropped off to sleep. He never awoke. In the morning they found his body, cold in death. Heart failure had taken him off quietly, curled up in his wagon, alone in the night.

Old J. L. Bosworth has been a familiar figure in Atlanta for many years. He worked for his living, at the age of 62, by peddling vegetables from his wagon. He had a room at 121 Forrest avenue, where he was wont to lay his head when the day's work was o'er.

But Saturday he worked so hard, and he didn't finish till late. When he had sold his last cabbagehead he drove his rickety wagon into the stable yard at 132 Decatur street. Here he put his horse away, saw that a goodly portion of corn and oats was given him to eat, and then without supper climbed into his wagon for his last sleep.

Funeral services will be held Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock in Poole's chapel. His old comrades of Camp Walker are invited to be present. The body will then be carried to his old home in Fayetteville, Ga., for interment. He is survived only by his wife.

Cleveland's Claim to Civic Intelligence.

At a time when the political grist was the most plentiful in the history of parties, the papers of Cleveland opened their columns to a greater quantity of news of the national conference of charities than any papers ever had done before. Cleveland contributed to the conference last month, the largest audience which it has ever known. The Cleveland, in which this national body met, however, was not only a city of oil refineries and of steel specialties, but a community which claims a greater amount of intelligent acquaintance of civic affairs among its citizens than can be found elsewhere in the United States.

A story illustrative of this claim is given in The Survey, for July.

A man once came to Newton D. Baker, mayor of Cleveland, and said: "My town is going to have a street railway fight. I want to know all about Cleveland's."

"I shall be only too glad to tell you all I know," said Mr. Baker, "but unfortunately I have appointments until 1 o'clock. Will you come back then?"

"How can I most profitably put in the two hours until that time?" asked the stranger.

The answer was: "Go out on the public square, sit down by the most unlikely man you can find—the one who looks most as if he didn't know the difference between a franchise and a double track. Ask that man to tell you about Cleveland's street railway fight, and when you come back I will tell you whatever you haven't been able to learn from him."

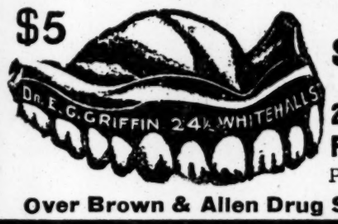

The man came back at the end of two hours. "I needn't keep my appointment here," he said. "I found an old chap whose feet were out of his shoes, whose elbows were out of his shirt sleeves, and who looked as if he had just sobered up for the first time in a month—in short, I found the unlikeliest looking individual at large. I put one question to him and he started right in at the beginning and filled in all the details and brought me down to date. There's nothing for you to tell me unless you know what's going to happen. He hasn't been let in on that."

Here It Is Without A Single Change:

"This campaign is simply an issue of decency against indecency and involves merely the question of whether a common blackguard, who will stoop to any unscrupulous slander, and who has adopted such methods in his race for mayor as to almost frighten any decent man from entering a race against him, shall be placed by this city at the head of its government, and thus ADVERTISE TO THE WORLD that a majority of her people are of the Woodward type."
(Signed) ALDINE CHAMBERS.

Unfortunately for Atlanta much of Mr. Woodward's unfortunate career and record, as Mayor of this city, has been given wide publicity throughout the country. Newspapers from Maine to California and from the Lakes to the Gulf have printed, from time to time, articles which reflected not alone on the man who was then our Mayor, but on Atlanta as well.

Mr. Woodward is known not only at home, but he is known abroad---he has been advertised ---he is known from reputation.

But the voters of Atlanta are not known. As individuals, as citizens, they have had no such free, but unenviable, advertising as has been accorded Mr Woodward.

Mr. Chambers knows, and he has repeatedly said, that many good men have been misled in their support of Mr. Woodward---men honest in their convictions---men with only the best interests of Atlanta at heart---clean men---but they were either misinformed or misled by statements from the "Mysterious Woodward Campaign Committee."

Mr. Chambers says--read it close--if you elect Mr. Woodward you will Advertise to the World that a majority of her people are of the Woodward type.

That's the impression the world would naturally get---because they know Mr. Woodward --they have kept up with his record.

But the world don't know you, Mr. Voter, and while you may be ever so honest, ever so moral, ever so clean--just as Mr. Chambers knows many of you to be--yet, the election of Mr. Woodward would picture you in the minds of the world as of the type of man you supported--which we know you are not.

We have purposely refrained from annoying you by reprinting many of the advertisements which we have in our possession---clippings from papers about Mr. Woodward's conduct abroad. That's the kind of advertising we mean. But since the "Mysterious Woodward Campaign Committee" has seen fit to misconstrue and misrepresent what was said, we felt that you were entitled to the correct construction.

Next!

J. R. SMITH,
Chairman Chambers Campaign Committee.

New Zealand Mutton-Bird.

(From "Concerning the Mutton-Bird" in the September Wide World Magazine.)

Yearly, at the coming of spring, the thousand coastal islands of New Zealand, more especially those lying toward the south, become the temporary homes of myriads of mutton-birds, which pay us a visit for the nesting season. Out of the silence of the great southern ocean come the birds, in vast armies. Low-flying over the water, for the most part close in shore, the huge flocks draw dark parallels of shadow across the seascape. The birds fly in separate bands, disciplined and massed into a serried whole—a continuous stream that passes between sea and sky. Each army shows a front of perhaps a quarter of a mile, the huge length stretching away league after league into interminable distance.

Stand on the brow of some coastal headland and watch the passage of one of these bird armies. It is a wonderful sight. Far below one looks down on a heaving floor of close-packed, undulating black backs, lit by a myriad scintillations of white-tipped wings. So close is the floor, so serried the ranks of the flyers, that the water beneath is hidden as with a carpet.

Hour after hour the passage of the army continues, from dawn till dark and far into the night. In the night the noise of countless beating wings that surges up over the cliffhead tells that the army is still on the move, till the whirr of wings and cries of the rearguard beating up the stragglers grow faint in the distance, and one realizes that at last the mighty host has passed on its way.

Have Joy Ride by Proxy.

(From The Survey.)

A personally conducted automobile trip of four members of the municipal assembly of St. Louis proved to be a joy ride not only for the delegates, but for the children as well, for it secured the passage of the St. Louis children's guardian bill.

First-hand observation, by the members of the municipal assembly, of the homes in which the Children's Aid society places destitute children and of the conditions at the industrial school, secured the passage of the St. Louis children's guardian bill. The bill was held up in the house of delegates, mainly because many members were opposed to what they understood to be the "farming out" method. One delegate mentioned that he had, when a boy, witnessed the most atrocious injustice in Connecticut where children were given out at public auction to the highest bidders, who often mistreated and overworked them.

On the morning of the automobile trip the friends of the measure at best could count upon but a bare majority. Later in the day the bill was passed by an overwhelming majority. Those who had been on the inspection trip were the ardent enthusiasts for the bill, and before the assembly convened they were on the floor converting opponents.

The bill establishes a board of children's guardians, which is to be appointed by the mayor with the approval of the council. The board, through public examination, selects an agent, a number of visitors, and a stenographer to place out destitute children in private homes instead of keeping them in the industrial school. All children must be placed within Missouri and within fifty miles of St. Louis. The city is to pay for the board and maintenance of every child so placed, not more than $3.50 a week. In addition, the board may pay for clothing and medical treatment for the children under its care.

"What we want is to found the United States of Europe," said Herve to me in conclusion. "If one studies history, and sees how Italy, France and Germany have become nations by the grouping together of small provinces which were always warring with each other one will realize that it is only one step further to a European federation, allowing each country its autonomy, as Switzerland permits its cantons. With this federation founded war will end for all time. The money, the billions now spent annually on armaments, could then be spent for social betterments, for the uplifting of the people.

"Arbitration between governments must be compulsory. If it is not made so, the working classes, in rising, are acting only in legitimate self-defense. "It needs just a reactionary movement to cement together all those who believe in and are working for the social republic, but who at present are split up into factions. The last time the people swept away the church! This time, when the pendulum swings our way, as there are no clericals left to devour, the people will put an end to the capitalists."

FARMS and FARMERS

Address all letters intended for this Department to Col. R. J. Redding, Editor of Farms and Farmers' Department, Griffin, Ga.

(1) FERTILIZING OATS; (2) TURNING UNDER PEAVINES

E. E. Lee, Heflin, Ala.—(1) When using your formula for oats do you put it under the seed, or drill the seed and run distributor, putting fertilizer on top of seeds?

(2) I suppose if it is best to turn grass and weeds under green it would be best to turn peavines under green. On account of dry weather the vines are too small to mow for hay.

I think I will like my Redding's select cotton fine.

Answer—(1) I consider it advisable to sow the fertilizer through the rear spout and the seed oats through the forward spout, when using a machine that will sow both oats and fertilizer at the same time, such a machine as Gault's, or Carmichal's, or Cole's.

I would not like to be compelled to use a single spout distributor and drill, for the simple reason that when using such a machine, twice as much time would be required in comparison with a regular 4 or 5-row, 2-horse oat and fertilizer drill, sowing 10 to 12 acres per day, may be had of American Seeding Machine company, Springfield, Ohio, for $75. This company, at my instance and suggestion, have peffected such a machine, and I know, from personal experience, that it is very effective.

(2) Yes, I would advise turning under peavines, or any other fertilizer crop, while still green; but if turned under immediately after killing frost there would be little if any difference.

PORTO RICAN COTTON AND TREE BEAN.

Mr. I. D. Lucas, Ponce, Porto Rico, sends a specimen of each of the above. The cotton seems to be a variety (or species) grown to some extent in West Indies, Central America and probably in tropical regions in South America. The adhesion of the seeds to each othser is rather indicative of Gosoypium arboreum, a tree-like form.

It is altogether improbable that this variety will mature anywhere in the cotton region of the United States (continental), because of the comparative shortness of our season of growth. I have myself planted seeds of tropical varieties that did not produce a single blossom before the plants were destroyed by frost. I have heard of the famous tree bean, but have not before now seen specimens of the seed.

I will take pleasure in planting a few of the cotton and bean seeds in my experimental garden in this city and I thank you for your thoughtfulness in sending them.

(1) RICE FAILURE; (2) RUST OF OATS; (3) MANGE OF DOGS.

T. J. W., Savannah, Ga.—(1) I have two acres of rice; it is shoulder high and all faulty heads; will not be four quarts of rice in the two acres. I planted it the first of June. The land is near the salt water, black, loamy, low soil. I put a little 8—4 acid to it. Please tell me why it did not make any rice. Tell me how to prevent oats from rusting and what will cure mange on dogs.

Answer—(1) I am not at all familiar with the insects and diseases that attack rice, but I suspect that your rice was attacked either by a fungus disease, which attacks the stalk just below the head and penetrates it until the head falls over and the stalk breaks at the point of attack. This is commonly called "neck rot," or "white blast." The remedy is liming the soil. There is also a worm called "rice borer" that causes a blast and failure. You do not describe the manner in which the rice was affected, and, therefore, I cannot say whether it was the results of insect or of fungus attacks.

(2) There is no known remedy or treatment for rust in grain, nor means of preventing it, except to sow a variety that is proof against rust. The Texas rust-proof, the Bancroft and the Appler are all rust-proof.

(3) For mange of dogs: Soften the scabs if necessary with oil, and wash thoroughly the mangey parts with soap and warm water. Then apply very thoroughly with a brush a mixture of 1 oz. of oil of tar and 20 ozs. of whale oil; or wash the dog all over with a decoction of 4 ozs. of Stanesaere seeds, boiling it for an hour in 2 gallons of water and letting it simmer another hour. Repeat in one week.

FERTILIZER FOR OKLAHOMA SANDY SOIL.

T. W. H., Atoka, Okla.—Kindly tell me the kind of fertilizer to use on sandy soil, with a clay subsoil for cotton and corn, and also the price per ton of such fertilizer. If you do not know price per ton, kindly forward this inquiry to some dealer who can furnish me the information.

Answer—In reply to your inquiry, I send you copy of "fetrilizer formulas," taken from one o fthe issues of the Tri-Weekly of last spring. This slip gives a good deal of information that should be in the possession of every southern farmer who uses commercial fertilizers. You will note that the formula recommended for corn analyzes about 7.58—3.76—1.50. Any formula contannig phosphoric acid, nitrogen and potash in the same (approximately) reliable proportions would answer equally as well on "old, worn uplands." Suggestions are given for modifying the formula when intended for use on fresh lands, sandy soils, bottom lands, highly improved soils, etc. For instance, the following analyses correspond to the one given above, to wit: 10—5—2; 9—4.5—1.80; 8—4—1.6 (these are higher grades than 7.58—3.76—1.50); 6—3—1.20; 5—2.50—1.00, and so on (these are lower). Any one of them will have the same effect on the crop as will any other; provided, the quantity applied per acre shall be in inverse proportion in the matter of grade. For instance, it would require just twice as much of a fertilizer analyzing 5—2.50—1.00 as it would of one analyzing 10—5—2, and so on.

If you prefer to buy the ready-mixed fertilizers, then you should seek to get one that approximates, in analysis, one or the other of those above given.

I hardly know to whom I should refer you for prices, etc. As a rule you should seek to buy from a factory near you on account of freights. Say, St. Louis, Memphis, Little Rock, or New Orleans.

I think you should be able to get valuable advice and information from Director James A. Wilson, of your state experiment station, at Stillwater, Okla.

WHEAT AND VETCH OR CRIMSON CLOVER.

S. A. McCosh, Scottsboro, Ala.—I am plowing my land with a 24-inch disc plow to sow oats or wheat, intending to cut this for feed when the grain is in the milis. Don't you think the wheat will stand the winter better than oats? I am going to plant with grain drill. I want to sow vetch with the grain. Please tell me how much of each to sow per acre. The soil is red and I am going to fertilize by your formula. I prefer sowing Crimson clover with it; provided, it will do. After again is cut will clover come out again? If I should use the clover, how much of each per acre? Will appreciate hearing from you by return mail.

If I should sow Crimson clover this month, will it be large enough to turn under by April?

Answer—Without doubt wheat is hardier to resist freezing than oats, but if oats be sown in "open furrows" (an ordinary drill is not effective) they will be about as safe against cold as would wheat be sown in the usual way. If you sow vetch (heavy) sow about 25 or 30 pounds of seed per acre and one bushel of wheat, or more, if the land is rich; say 1½ bushels (for hay). I do not advise sowing Crimson clover with wheat, at least, I would prefer vetch, as it is much more likely to do well. Crimson clover requires inoculation of the soil, while vetch usually succeeds very well without it.

If you sow Crimson clover it will be large enough, of course, to turn under at any time, but it will not have attained its full worth by first of April. Sow about 12 pounds seed per acre with the wheat.

ANTHRACNOSE OF COTTON.

W. H. Scott, Johnston, S. C.—I am sending you by this mail some cotton bolls, and I want you to tell me the nature of the trouble. Several others in the community bought the same seed, and all of it has a lot of these dead bolls. I attributed it to an intense hot spell that we had in August, but my neighbor, who has the same cotton, believes it is anthracnose. It is a good cotton, and while I have not ginned any of it, I am satisfied it will give a large percentage of flint. I inclose stamp for reply. Please tell me if it is anthracnose. If it is, I reckon I had better not save the seed.

Answer—The rotten hulls sent have been so long exposed to the weather that some of the distinctive or characteristic marks of anthracnose have been obscured or obliterated, but I have no doubt that it is anthracnose. Hot weather, nor weather of any sort, is a direct cause of boll rot, but hot, damp weather is favorable for the development and spread of anthracnose when the spoons are present, and especially when the seed planted were from infested (with anthracnose) stock. Some varieties are more subject to the fungus than are others. I have had (probably) the same sort of weather conditions that you describe, but very little rot of any kind.

COW DOES NOT HAVE A CALF.

L. I. Shuford, Hayesville, N. C.—I have a cow that got a leg broken nearly two years ago, and s now well, but limps. She has not had a calf since about three years ago. Has been in close pasture for that time. I now want her to bring a calf. What must I feed her to make her come in in order that she may bring a calf?

Answer—It is reasonable to assume that the cow has been permitted access by a bull, and I am left to infer either that she has not come in season" during the time that has elapsed, or that you thought best for her not to bring a calf, and have therefore kept her away from a bull, and "now you want her to bring a calf." If the latter alternative is correct, then, of course, you know what is the essential necessary. If she "refuses," I know of no treatment except to feed on stimulating food, such as shelled oats, wheat bran and good hay. To this end it is better that she should be at first rather thin in condition then feed her liberally on such stimulating food, and when rapidly improving try again.

HOG CHOLERA, OR SWINE PLAGUE.

A. T. Crother, Natchez, Miss.—I had a fine shoat (cross between Duroc Jersey and Poland China) to die today, after about four or five days' sickness. When first noticed she seemed to stay by herself and would not eat or drink. And would lie down all the time on her belly. A few days later she stood up all the time with nose near the ground. Her throat seemed to be sore, as she had a difficulty in swallowing. Had no fever and breathed narrowly except when forced to take a little exercise, then she seemed to breathe with difficulty for a few moments. Looked all right and walked all right. Would put her mouth in water, but did not seem to drink. When penned she seemed to want to go with the other hogs, but if turned with them would go off by herself. Run in a large pen of four or five acres. Fed rice or a wheat bran in water morning and evening and about half hour later fed shelled corn, home raised. She was of a litter of nine and all have been very healthy. She was about 6 or 7 months old and weighed about 90 pounds and in fine condition for meat. I held a post-mortem, but as I know absolutely nothing about hog anatomy, I could not say what was wrong, but found nothing wrong in her stomach; but did find her heart partly surrounded with a watery looking substance, and full of water, which I did not think natural. It was full of cells or bulbs and each full of water. Her symptoms shown indigestion, but I gave her oil and salts, and they worked her all right. Concluded her throat was sore, as she acted like she had guinsy, though had no cough, and I found in an old book indigo was good for sore throat, so gave her a dose of that and it seemed to do her some good, as she walked around and would lie down, which seemed to ease her. I held her down and was rubbing her throat with coal oil when she died. Hoping you can tell me what was the trouble from my diagnosis. This watery substance was not attached to her heart, but was back of it. Her blood was almost black.

Answer—Some of the symptoms described are peculiar to hog cholera, while others seem to indicate a very closely similar disease known as "swine plague."

I think you should at once separate the well hogs from the sick and make an effort to prevent the further spread of the disease. Put the well hogs in a comfortable place several hundred yards away if possible and do not let the man who looks after the sick hogs go about the well ones. Give each pig 1 to 2 ozs. of castor oil. This should be followed by giving from 6 to 10 drops of nitro-hydrochloric acid well diluted with water three times a day, also give ½ oz. spirits turpentine in a little sweet oil once a day. Continue this for three or four days, then give four grains of quinine in two tablespoons of whisky and same of water three times a day for three or four days. I do not vouch for the effectiveness of the above treatment, but give it, as taken from "Diseases of the Hog," by McIntosh. Write to Dr. James Lewis, V. S., of the Experiment Station, Agricultural College, Miss., for some hog cholera serum with directions for administering.

1. HORSE V. COW MANURE. 2. MONEY VALUES. 3. HOW MUCH AND HOW APPLY FERTILIZERS.

H. H. Mobley, Hogansville, Ga.—1. Which of the two manures is highest in plant food value, horse or cow manure?

2. Would you advise buying manure at $3 per ton and, if so, which manure would be the best and cheapest at price named?

3. Do you advise broadcasting manure in fall, followed by deep breaking, and then sown to rye for winter cover crop, or breaking land as deeply as possible, plowed by the sowing of the cover crop and broadcasting or drilling the manure next spring for both cotton and corn? I wish to prepare 20 acres for cotton and 10 acres for corn, and have it in the best possible shape by next spring, and will appreciate your advice on how to prepare, amount of manure to use per acre and also kind and amount of commercial fertilizer to use per acre.

Answer—Perhaps I may best answer this question by giving the following analyses of horse and cattle manure, both solid and liquid:

	Phos. Acid.	Nitrogen.	Potash.
Cattle excrement (solid and (fresh)	0.17	0.29	0.10
Cattle urine (fresh)	0.00	0.58	0.49
Horse excrement (solid)	0.17	0.44	0.33
Horse urine (fresh)	0.00	1.55	1.50

I should say that solid horse manure, fresh and without litter, is worth 50 per cent more than the same of cow manure; horse urine, fresh, is worth 100 per cent more than cattle urine.

Of course, the above analyses are based on grain-fed animals. It should be remarked also that no account is taken of the humus value of the two kinds of solid excrement. In practice, where both species of animals are full fed and other condtions are approximately equal, there would be very little difference in plant food corbent between the resulting manures. Horse manure is more quickly decomposed and much more liable to loss from overheating.

2. I would not, myself, give $3 per ton for the best horse or cattle manure unless, possibly, for kitchen or flower garden use—meaning, of course, the ordinary manure usually obtainable at livery stables and cow barns.

3. That is just what I have been doing in my garden today, and what I did last fall. I believe it to be an excellent plan to haul manure directly to the field and plow it under, especially unfermented manure. I would rarely, if ever, postpone the hauling out and plowing under manure until spring. If (even when fresh) it be plowed under in the fall it will be more effective on a crop planted next spring than it would if kept over and applied in the spring. The cover crop will be all the better from the manure.

The fall of the year is unquestionably the best time for subsoiling, because the frequent rains of winter make the subsoil (clay) too wet to subsoil, even after it becomes dry enough for ordinary preparation.

I would not care to apply more than 300 to 500 pounds per acre of any good corn fertilizer, say, formula No. 1, so often recommended, and from 500 to 800 pounds per acre on cotton of formula No. 2, also frequently published. Any well (honestly) made, ready-mixed fertilizer would probably do as well if of about the same analysis and grade of those two formulas.

"Why have you never run for office?" asked the reporter.

"Well," said the wealthy citizen, "when I was younger I was too poor to make a campaign; now that I am rich I don't dare to."—Detroit Free Press.

SOCIETY

St. Elizabeth's Guild Luncheon.

Beginning Tuesday, October 15 the ladies of St. Elizabeth's Guild will furnish delicious luncheons at 130 Peachtree street, these luncheons to be especially marked for the cooking. It is easy enough to buy food these days, and almost any kind of food, but it is not so easy to have it well prepared, well cooked. The ladies of the guild, of which Mrs. Pardee is president, will make a specialty of the way their luncheon is prepared and served, and they ask the patronage of all their friends.

The executive committee includes Mrs. Pardee, Mrs. Nym Hurt, Mrs. John Marshall Slaton and Mrs. Carroll Bryan. The purpose of the luncheons is to secure funds for the payment for the beautiful picture soon to be installed in the church.

Whereas the purpose of these luncheons promoted by prominent women is to secure funds for one purpose or another, they feel they offer value full, for the average man who takes his lunch uptown each day finds the change to the restaurant representing a private venture a restful occasion when he meets many friends.

The Cabaret.

The cabaret show which is to be given in the ballroom of the old Capital City club on Tuesday evening next is sure to reflect great credit upon Mrs. Belle White Stallings, Mrs. Aldine Pound and John E. Smith, who have had the sole management of this unique affair and have worked indefatigably for its success. Their efforts promise to be well rewarded, for applications for reservations of tables for the evening are coming to the committee from all the best-known people in Atlanta society. The tables will be served by a group of pretty young, sweet matrons and debutantes; some others will be dressed as Indian maids and flower girls, and will sell cigars and flowers. A delicious supper will be served, and a delightful musical program will be rendered by prominent artists and well-known amateurs, notable among whom will be Mrs. Frank Pearson, Mme. Edla Lund, Mr. Jansen, Mrs. V. V. [illegible]ryde, Miss Ethel Thornton, Mr. G. V. Stallings and a quartet of soldier boys from Fort McPherson.

NO HOPE TO AVERT WAR IN BALKANS

Proposed Intervention of the Powers Is Rejected.

London, October 13.—War in the Balkans is now only a matter of a few days. The replies of the Balkan states to the powers' note, virtually rejecting intervention, will be delivered at the various capitals tomorrow, and at the same time notes practically in the shape of an ultimatum will be sent to Turkey, demanding autonomy for the Macedonian provinces.

According to a reliable dispatch from Rome, the Balkan coalition will make a demand which it will be impossible for the porte to accept, namely, that the reforms be executed under control of the European powers and the Balkan states, and as a pledge that the porte assent to the immediate demobilization of the Turkish forces.

It is understood that the porte will be given until Tuesday to reply; therefore, there is every probability that general hostilities will be opened before the week is ended.

Bulgarian Army Moving.

A Sofia dispatch reports that the movement of the Bulgarian army has already begun. The Montenegrins, continuing their advance, have capturend Byelopolye, an important strategic point on the northwest of Berana, after desperate fighting. They are now on their way to Slonitza, 30 miles to the northeast of Byelopolye, and close to the Servian frontier, against which they will direct an attack. It is in this direction that the Montenegrins expect to join hands with the Servian army when it advances from the north.

According to a Constantinople dispatch to The Standard, Essad Pasha arrived at Scutari today with reinforcements, raising the garrison from 12,000 to 20,000 men. If this news is true the Montenegrins will have a difficult task in capturing Scutari.

MONTENEGRO GAINS FOOTHOLD IN SANJAK OF NOVIPAZAR

Podgoritza, Montenegro, October 13.—The northern Montenegrin army, under General Vukotitch, which recently crossed the border into the Sanjak of Novipazar, gained a firm foothold last night by capturing Byelopolye, one of the chief towns of the province, after prolonged fighting, but no information has been received regarding the losses on both sides. The Montenegrins have set up there a provisional government. The Serb inhabitants of Byelopolye welcomed the Montenegrins as liberators from the Turkish yoke. A church service was held and prayers were offered for the Montenegrin king.

GREECE MOBILIZING HER ARMY; 170,000 SOLDIERS IN FIELD

Athens, October 13.—The mobilization of the Greek army is proceeding rapidly. Already 125,000 men are under arms, with Greeks arriving daily from abroad. A large contingent has already reached here from America. With the recruits, it is estimated that 170,000 soldiers can be placed in the field.

As a result of the reorganization of the last few years, the whole army has been clothed, equipped and armed with modern rifles. All infantry regiments have machine gun sections. Transportation by land and sea has been prompt, and the efficiency of the mobilization has raised the morale of the troops greatly.

TURKEY ACTING IN MANNER TO IRRITATE BALKAN STATES

Constantinople, October 13.—Whether for the purpose of furnishing provocation for war or to show the Balkan allies that Turkey cannot be intimidated the government is acting with an aggressiveness calculated to bring on hostilities. The embargo on Greek ships, the detention of Servian ammunition and the seizure of Bulgarian railway cars all constitute belligerent acts.

Greek and Bulgarian nationals in Constantinople numbering 1,000 or more, have been subjected to treatment designed to irritate these two nations. Financial considerations figure largely in the attitude of the Turkish government and practically all of the many hundreds of Greeks who are returning to Athens are compelled to pay full taxes to the end of the year before the yare permitted to embark. Even the crews of Greek ships which were seized have been haled before the prefects and made to pay a year's tax, as though they were Turkish subjects. Many Greeks have been arrested on the charge of being deserting reservists and they can procure their release only by paying the military exemption tax.

Turkey's action, however, is less arbitrary than would seem because members of the Greeks hold both Hellenic and Turkish passports to obtain the advantages of both nationalities and they now have to shoulder the responsibilities of both.

The government is determined to expel all Bulgarian and Greek subjects as soon as war is declared.

The government is requisitioning the horses owned by foreign residents, except diplomatic representatives. The various embassies have protested and notified the porte that compensation will be claimed. Several Turkish women are going to the front to attend the wounded. This will mark the beginning of a new era for the sex.

TOWN HAS BEEN DEMOLISHED BY GUNS OF MONTENEGRINS

London, October 14.—A Podgoritza dispatch to The Daily Mail says the town of Schicerik has been practically demolished by the Montenegrin guns and that 250 Turks have been taken prisoners. A block house at Arorazi also has been levelled.

Describing the capture of Detchitch mountain, a correspondent at the front says the final charge of the Montenegrins was so furious that the retreating Turks had no time to disable their guns and they were actually fired at with their own guns by the Montenegrins as they endeavored to make their escape to the south.

The noted Macedonian leader Todor Lazaroff committed suicide Friday, says a Sofia dispatch to The Chronicle, because the military directors refused to enroll him in the army owing to the fact that he was suffering from tuberculosis. He left a letter saying he could not remain behind to die in bed while his brothers were fighting for liberty.

The incident has acted as a spur to patriotism. The body is lying in state in the ancient church of St. George, where great crowds have been viewing it.

Vardaman Lecture.
(At Baptist Tabernacle.)

HIS HEAD WAS BROKEN IN QUARREL OVER HORSE

Nashville, Tenn., October 13.—Resulting from a family quarrel, Frank Scruggs, a farmer living seven miles from the city, lies in a critical condition at St. Thomas hospital with a fractured skull, while his brother, J. W. Scruggs, and nephew, Russell Scruggs, aged 15 years, are in the county jail, charged with assault with intent to murder. The fight resulted from a petty quarrel over a horse. The farmer was unloading his wagon when the boy struck him in the back of the head with a large rock. J. W. Scruggs then finished the job with a log measuring three inches in diameter. The rock and log both, covered with the blood and hair of the injured man, were brought in as evidence.

Greeks Give for War.

Nashville, Tenn., October 13.—More than $3,000 was subscribed in fifteen minutes here tonight at a meeting of local Greeks. The money will be forwarded to Greece, and will be divided between the Red Cross society and the families of Grecian soldiers who are now actively engaged in the Balkan war. The money was turned over to P. Panageotopulos, Greek consul at the port of Nashville, and will be forwarded to Greece by him.

Phillips, a capitalist of Olustee, was instantly killed, his wife was seriously injured and Miss Iva Moore, of this city, was slightly hurt when the automobile in which they were riding was struck by an eastbound Frisco motor car at a railroad crossing near here today.

China's Reform Leader.

Dr. Sun Yat Sen, who was the first provisional president of China, has arrived at Pekin from Shanghai to undertake to save the republic from a threatened renewal of hostilities as the result of the execution of several members of his party. President Yuan Shih Kai is charged with having ordered the executions, which have inflamed the members of the republican party. The national assembly has directed President Yuan to make an explanation. Dr. Sun was urged by his friends not to go to Pekin, as it was feared that also he might be assassinated.

on board the old training ship Granite State.

Run Down by Archbold's Yacht.

The yacht Vixen, which ran down the launch, is said to be the Vixen which is owned by John D. Archbold, president of the Standard Oil company, of New Jersey. The launch which she struck was the 40-foot Madvic, owned by Bernard Bauer, of the Hudson River Yacht club. Mr. Bauer was not sure whether Mr. Archbold was on board the Vixen at the time, but believes that a man who directed the rescue of some of the men was Mr. Archbold. After the Vixen had taken the rescued parties to the shore it disappeared, and up to a late hour tonight there had been no communication with those on board.

DIPHTHERIA FORCES CLOSING OF SCHOOLS

New Orleans, October 13.—The presence of diphtheria in the city resulted in the decision to close three of the public schools here until the infection has been stamped out in these neighborhoods. The city board of health announced that the three schools have been inspected, and show no infection, but it was decided to close them as a matter of precaution.

The Josephine Louise dormitory of Newcomb college, which had been temporarily closed, because of the presence of a case of diphtheria, was given a clean bill of health by the authorities. President Dixon, of Newcomb, however, decided to close the college for two days, to permit a thorough inspection.

Seventy-two cases of diphtheria were reported yesterday and only seventeen today. A total of about 200 cases has been reported since last Monday.

GUARDS BATTLE WITH CONVICTS

tion. The gates remained locked and no definite word came out early tonight regarding events within. Early reports that several men were killed had not been confirmed several hours later.

Persons coming into town from the south bring stories of a reign of terror in the country districts. Riders have been sent to the ranches for a radius of several miles, warning the owners to be prepared to defend their property.

Several parties who went south today on horseback or in carriages returned tonight afoot, their horses having been stolen by the convicts.

The escapes of yesterday and today appear to be the result of a general plot inside the prison.

Where Did They Get Guns?

It is not known how the prisoners who made their break for liberty this afternoon get the guns with which they were well supplied when they dashed from the gates. It is possible, the local officers believe, that they killed a number of guards after overpowering the cellhouse keeper and took their weapons. Another theory is that the guns were smuggled into the prison by friends of the men who escaped yesterday.

Warden Alston has been in the hills since last night, and has not been located, although couriers were sent out tonight to tell him of the events of the day. A deputy warden said tonight he did not know the exact number of men who escaped.

It is believed the ringleaders in the delivery are some of the men who several days ago lynched inside their prison walls Frank Wigfall, a negro, who had attacked an aged woman.

Several weeks ago several of the most desperate prisoners had their sentences cut down for aiding in putting out a fire in one of the buildings, thereby saving the penitentiary from probable destruction.

East Lake Road

At the southwest corner of East Lake Road and Tupelo St. we have a lot 200x372 for $3,250.

It is a beautiful building site, just three blocks from entrance to Country Club. The lot runs away back into an oak grove; sewers and water can be obtained.

It would be the stroke of wisdom for someone to buy this for a home and have a house sitting back 100 feet off the road.

PUBLIC NOTICE

Judging from the manner of the campaign which has been conducted by the "MYSTERIOUS WOODWARD CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE," and believing that their same tactics will be employed and continued throughout the entire campaign, we ask the public to be on its guard against the publication, AT THE LAST MOMENT, of further attacks upon the integrity and character of Mr. Chambers made in their desperation to deceive the voters of Atlanta.

Already attempts have been made to assassinate the character of Mr. Chambers, and the perpetrators were forced to make public acknowledgements in the daily press of the falsity of their slanderous charges.

Any similar charge, or charges, will meet the same fate, but the hope of the opposition lies in springing these false attacks at the eleventh hour.

Chairman Chambers Campaign Committee.
